Bucyrus Man Killed By Train Near New London

ENGINE HITS SMALL TRUCK AT CROSSING

Papers In Clothing Identify Victim as F. B. Reeves, In Office Supply Business.

VEHICLE MASHED TO BITS

Body of Former Mansfielder Thrown Free of Wreckage, Scattered Half Mile.

A man identified from papers in his clothing as Fred B. Reeves, Sandusky street, Bucyrus, was instantly killed at 11:15 a. m. today when a small delivery truck he was driving was hit by a northbound Big Four train at the Close crossing, northeast of New London.

Papers in the truck bore the letterhead "Fred B. Reeves, office, bank, and store equipment and supplies." The truck was smashed and bits of the wreckage were scattered for half a mile along the track. Typewriters and other office equipment were also scattered about.

Thrown From Wreckage.

Reeves body was thrown clear of the wreckage, but he was dead when members of the train crew reached him. An insurance policy in his pocket was made out to an F. B. or J. B. Reeves. The first initial was indistinguishable.

Reeves apparently was traveling east at the time of the crash. The crossing, about two miles east of New London, is a diagonal one on which it is difficult to see a train approaching because of the high grade. The road on which Reeves was driving goes from New London to Spencer, intersecting Route 42 near Medina.

Two months ago, Howard Landis, 20, of New London, was killed when his loaded grain truck was hit at the same crossing.

The train that struck Reeves' truck was No. 46, eastbound from St. Louis to Cleveland. It left Galion at 10:05 and was due in Cleveland at 11:45, but was delayed 45 minutes by the accident.

Former Mansfielder.

Fred B. Reeves was a former Mansfield resident, it was learned from officials of the Charles Ritter company, where he was employed about four years ago. Ritter officials said that he had moved to Bucyrus from Mansfield about three months ago, and had started in business for himself, selling office supplies and equipment.

They said he called at the Ritter store about once a week, to get supplies for which he had obtained orders in Bucyrus and from nearby towns in the territory he was building up.

What disposition was made of the body of the crash victim was not learned immediately.

Troops Rule Town In Mexico After 3 Die In Rioting

TIA JUANA, Mexico—(INS)—This little border town, once the gay mecca of thousands of thirsty Americans during the prohibition era, was under martial law today.

Federal troops, patrolled the streets to prevent re-occurrence of yesterday's bloody riot which saw three persons killed, at least a score trampled and wounded and two public builings burned by an enraged mob which sought the killer and ravisher of eight-year-old Olga Comacho.

Officials indicated that a young soldier who reportedly confessed to killing the pretty little Mexican child had been spirited away to a neighboring city and would be dealt with summarily.

Two young children, an eight-year-old and a fourteen-year-old boy, and an adult man were killed by troops as the infuriated mob set the city jail and federal building afire in its attempt to take and lynch the killer, as yet unidentified.

The rioting lasted three hours as a small handful of police officers and federal troops attempted to battle the 1,500 people.

Austria Bows to Nazi Demands, Shifts Policy

Schuschnigg Frees All Political Prisoners In Sweeping Decrees.

PRESS GETS MUZZLE

Cabinet Shake-Up Leaves Pro-Hitler Members In Four Key Posts.

(By International News Service)

VIENNA—The shadow of Nazi Germany's swastika covered Austria from border to border today as Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg's reconstructed cabinet issued two vital decrees in swift compliance with Chancellor Hitler's demands.

The decrees, issued at 2:30 a. m. while the nation slept, marked a sweeping change in Austria's policies on the Nazi question. They provided:

1. Complete amnesty for all Nazi political prisoners in Austrian jails, including those arrested for participating in the unsuccessful Nazi putsch of July, 1934, in which tiny Engelbert Dollfuss, Schuschnigg's predecessor, was slain.

2. A sweeping order to the Austrian press prohibiting from now on any publication of hostile criticism or derogatory remarks concerning Germany's Nazi regime or its leaders.

Release of political prisoners in accordance with the amnesty began about noon today.

Among First Freed.

Leopold Tavs, secretary general of the Nazi headquarters here, whose arrest was said to have precipitated the crisis, was among the first released. He was reported to have departed immediately for Germany.

Monarchists and Jews in Austria were extremely disappointed at the overnight events, concerning which Austrian newspapers published only officially prepared comments.

Reconstruction of the Austrian cabinet, carried out in accordance with Hitler's dictates, left pro-Nazi leaders in charge of at least four key posts. Three other Austrian cabinet ministers are considered friendly to Nazi aims.

In the new ministry, which was sworn in just before the two decrees were issued, Schuschnigg holds the posts of premier and minister of defense.

Austria's government underwent its virtually complete transformation as Schuschnigg and his advisers, in an all-night session, decided to bow to Hitler's demands rather than face the threat of armed force.

JUDGE UPHELD, BUT ALL IN VAIN

Attorney General Says He Can Send Girl to Institution, But Girl's Gone Now.

An attorney general's ruling upheld Probate Judge C. J. Anderson today in sending an 18-year-old Mansfield girl to the Delaware industrial school, but when the ruling arrived, the judge had no girl to send.

Esther Eubanks, 18, of 313 Bowman street, was sentenced to the Delaware institution Jan. 26 for assault and battery on a relief client. When the superintendent at Delaware refused to accept her because her case was heard while she was still 17, Judge Anderson paroled her to an aunt in Pittsburgh.

The opinion handed down by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy upheld Judge Anderson's action in ordering the girl confined to the industrial school.

Kallmerten Reported as Backing Davey to Run Again.

E. B. Kallmerten, chairman of the Richland county Democratic executive committee, was listed today as a member of a committee of seven seeking to "draft" Gov. Martin L. Davey as a candidate for a third term, a United Press dispatch from Columbus said. Kallmerten was out of the city and could not be reached for a statement.

Friends of the governor were circulating petitions in his behalf, although it has been expected in political circles that he would announce for a third term soon.

Petitions had been distributed today to the employes of the bureau of motor vehicles, with each worker assigned to obtain a certain number of signatures for the governor, the United Press reported.

Other members of the "draft Davey" committee were listed as John Nolan, Steubenville; E. J. Williams, Kent; Mrs. Mildred Jaster, Cleveland; Walter F. Heer, Columbus; Mrs. Ann Makley, Dayton, and Daniel S. Earhart, Columbus.

FIRE IN MINE PERILS 90 MEN

Spark Ignited Gas Pocket, Probe Indicates; Flames Extinguished.

JACKSON, Cal.—(INS)—Fire which imperiled 90 miners on the 4,300-foot level of the historic Argonaut gold mine near here was believed to have started from a spark which ignited accumulated gas in the mine, a preliminary probe by company officials indicated today.

The score of miners rushed to safety levels when the fire broke out late yesterday. It was brought under control last night.

The Argonaut mine was the scene of a major disaster in 1922 when 47 miners were killed by fire and gas.

Scout Leader Free Man— at Price of Ice Cream Bars

Dent Haled Into Scout Court for Smoking Buggy Whips, Found Guilty—'Officials' Split 'Fine.'

After being serious most of the day in their task of running the city government yesterday, Mansfield's Boy Scout city officials wound up their term of office with a bit of horse-play, and with Floyd Dent, area Scout executive as the goat.

But even in fun, the Scouts left the impression that they knew pretty well what they were doing, and came off with easily the best of the bargain.

Dent was a free man today, but at a price. And he was going around grumbling something about mutiny.

Effective Mutiny.

It might have been mutiny, but it was certainly effective. Dent was sitting in his office, acting very satisfied with the way his scouts had conducted themselves as city officials, when the Boy Scout chief of police, Robert Curry, appeared on the scene, informed Dent he was under arrest, and took him off to jail.

The amazed official was informed he was charged with smoking buggy whips—which, it seemed, had offended the olfactory sensibilities of a number of people, including some of his scouts.

In due time, he was arraigned in court. If Dent had an idea the cards were stacked against him before arraignment, he was certain of it afterward.

He appeared before Municipal Judge Robert Burns. City Solicitor Robert Meese handled the prosecution. They demanded that Dent produce one of his cigars. He did. Meese claimed that was sufficient evidence to convict.

Dent tried to plead his own case. Meese objected. The court sustained Meese. It got so that Dent couldn't say a word without an objection from Meese, who was quickly upheld by the judge.

Obviously, Dent was found guilty. Then came the sentence.

He could, the court decided, either sit in the "jug" for an hour, or pay a fine. The fine, it was solemnly decreed, would be three gallons of ice cream.

Under a gentle reminder that the court had a contempt of court ace up its sleeve in case he didn't come through, Dent paid his fine —in the shape of ice cream bars.

The court, the solicitor and all other scout officials, then proceeded to "split" the fine.

FAIL TO AGREE

Jurors Still In Deadlock In Wright's Sanity Trial.

LOS ANGELES— (U.P.) —A jury convened for the third time today to debate whether Paul A. Wright was sane when he killed his wife and John B. Kimmel, for which he was found guilty on two counts of manslaughter.

The jurors retired at 10 o'clock last night, to resume deliberations at 9 a. m. Monday evening and yesterday they were in session 14 hours, 10 hours longer than it required for them to find Wright guilty of manslaughter. He had entered a secondary plea of not guilty by reason of insanity, which requires a separate trial.

Judge Ingall W. Bull indicated that he might let the jurors deliberate another day or two before giving up hopes of a verdict and dismissing them. A new sanity trial probably would require three weeks.

AUDITOR BEATEN

OUSTED WATER EMPLOYE GETS OLD JOB BACK

Stillwagon, Water Works Pump Operator, Back on Payroll; Drops Suit.

FIRED BY M'FARLAND

Employe Waives All Claims For Pay Made In Action Following Dismissal.

Clarence F. Stillwagon, former city employe who was discharged last fall by former Mayor Earl A. McFarland, today had been restored to his position of pumpman in the water works department.

The announcement came from Mayor Claude M. Hunter, following a settlement out of court, on the action by Stillwagon seeking approximately $1,300 in back wages and his former position.

Waives All Claims.

Stillwagon, appointed as an incinerator operator in the garbage department on Jan. 10 by Hunter agreed to waive all claims against the city, if restored to his former position, the mayor said.

While the action filed in common pleas court was against former Service-Safety Director Philip Wolfe, City Auditor Paul Kelley, and City Treasurer Dean A. Eckart, negotiations completed Saturday were between Mayor Hunter, a civil service commission and Stillwagon's counsel, Attorneys C. F. Creedman and Joseph A. Bayer.

Attorney George Biddle, new secretary of the civil service commission, explained that the records of the commission showed that no formal complaint had ever been issued against Stillwagon and that he was never taken off the eligible list.

Orders Job Restored.

The commisison ordered Hunter to restore Stillwagon to his former position as pumpman, with seniority rights and to discharge the last appointee.

Hunter said that Stillwagon had been transferred to the Hedges street pumping station yesterday to succeed John Leibfritz, who has been retired on the civil service eligibility list.

Stillwagon, who is the oldest pumpman, from the point of service, in the water department, was discharged by McFarland last October after he had filed suit against the city to obtain his former position and the loss of pay resulting from his transfer from the water department to the street department.

JAM STATION

Thousands on Hand as Body of McIntyre Arrives.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—(INS)—Several thousand persons were on hand at the station today when the body of O. O. McIntyre, noted newspaper columnist, arrived here from New York, where he died Monday.

The train arrived shortly before noon and a few minutes later the coffin was transferred to a motor hearse for the journey to Gallipolis, O., McIntyre's boyhood home.

The body was escorted by a delegation representing the Gallipolis Chamber of Commerce to Gatewood, McIntyre's eight-room house where he and his wife, the former Maybelle Small of Gallipolis, had hoped to make their final home.

Before funeral services tomorrow the body will lie in state. Pallbearers, not yet named, will be Gallipolis residents.

The American Legion today stood cleared of all blame for the riot that followed the speech in Buffalo of G. Wilhelm Kunze, New York organizer for the Amerikadeutscher Volksbund, shown above. Speaking at a meeting of the Volksbund in Cleveland Kunze said the Legion was not responsible for the riot. There was no trouble at last night's Cleveland meeting, although a group of men outside the meeting hall warned members entering the Bund hall against going in.

QUARANTINES ON 4 HOMES LIFTED

First Patients In Smallpox Outbreak Released as Four New Cases Are Reported.

While health authorities announced today that the first quarantines had been lifted in the smallpox outbreak, five new cases were reported, increasing the total in the county to 65.

Four families who had been quarantined for the disease have been released, Health Commissioner Roy C. Rehder said. One was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nell, Mifflin township, where the parents and five children had been ill. Although their cases were reported to the health department only a week ago, Dr. Rehder said the children had been confined with smallpox for several weeks previous.

The others released from quarantine were Robert and Walter Weimer of Crider road; family of Milton Au, South Diamond road, and Glenn Touby, 203 Helen avenue.

The two new cases in the city, both adults, were Miss Lucille Beer, of 99 East First street, and Mrs. Raymond Donoldson, 45 Brickman street.

Those in the county were Mrs. Helen Stutz, 22, of Kentucky avenue, Lincoln Heights; Gladwin Currin, 9, of 434 Central avenue, a student at Newman school and William Kanz, 9, of R. D. 4, Mansfield, a student at Lincoln Heights school.

MICHIGAN FLOOD MENACE ABATES

DETROIT—(AP)—The Saginaw and Grand rivers, only remaining danger spots on Michigan's flood map, appeared today to have reached their highest levels without further damage.

In both areas confidence was expressed that there would be no further danger.

Lowlands in the Grand river valley still were inundated, but the waters were beginning to recede and families that were forced to leave their homes last Sunday returned to take stock of their property.

Numerous tributaries of the Saginaw continued to recede.

LEARN CITIES PAID LESS FOR HOT MIX JOBS

State Charged $6.77 a Yard More by Contractors, Committee Finds.

FEE PAYMENT UNCOVERED

Dig Into Identical Bids By Association Members and Lack of Competition.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Edwin L. Linzell, chief deputy engineer of Franklin county, testified before the graft committee today that the county paid as low as $7.85 a cubic yard for T-135 road material. Committee Counsel James Metzenbaum produced state highway records to show that one contractor, who had bid $7.89 on a Franklin county road project, had bid $13.50 on a state project in Franklin county.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The Ohio senate graft investigating committee pressed a relentless inquiry into highway department contracts today after uncovering evidence yesterday that a Columbus highway contractor had paid "fees" totaling $2,341.

Today the committee heard evidence that the state has paid $6.77 a cubic yard more for "hot mix" road materials than Franklin county villages.

$9.71 As Against $16.48.

C. A. Niple, city engineer for Grandview Heights, Upper Arlington and Marble Cliff, testified that he purchased T-135 road materials for $9.71 a cubic yard, including delivery, placing and rolling.

James Metzenbaum, committee counsel, read from highway department records that the state paid $16.48 a cubic yard on a T-135 road constructed in Van Wert county last year.

Nipe contended the material used on a road project in Grandview Heights was superior to that used on state roads. He said the mixtures were tested by a private laboratory.

Niple also testified that Upper Arlington paid $8.32 a cubic yard for T-135. He said this, too, was superior in some respects to that used by the state.

Only One Bidder.

Metzenbaum pointed out that on some bids where the Columbus suburbs received low prices there was only one bidder.

"This certainly refutes testimony yesterday that low prices being paid for hot mix roads by

RAPS ADMIRALS

Borah Hits 'Propaganda,' Tells Them 'Stay In Your Place.'

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Blunt admonition to admirals to stay "in their proper place" and not issue what he termed "ridiculous propaganda" for naval expansion, was made today by Senator William E. Borah (R) Idaho.

While he was suggesting navy admirals do not form the nation's policies, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R) Michigan, urged President Roosevelt to say whether he now stands by his Chicago speech of four months ago, in which he advocated a "quarantine" for aggressor nations.

Uncertainty over the president's foreign policy hovers over the nation, Vandenberg said.

Senior High's June Class Sets Record—291 to Get Diplomas

Mansfield Senior high school will graduate the largest class in its history June 9 when 291 seniors are scheduled to get diplomas at commencement exercises.

June classes at the school have been growing in size for the past several years, Principal Jesse Beer said, with this year's group setting a new record. The largest graduating class to date is 255.

Because of its size, the June class already is causing school officials some concern about commencement exercises. Due to lack of seating facilities it will be impossible to hold the exercises in the auditorium, Beer said.

The class itself would occupy the entire center section of the first floor in the auditorium, leaving little room for parents and guests, he pointed out. Present plans call for the exercises to be held outdoors in Stadium field. In the event of bad weather, officials are considering holding the exercises in the gymnasium, where it would be possible to accomodate a larger crowd.

Tentative plans for graduation and other senior functions were discussed at a meeting of the class yesterday afternoon at the close of school. During the meeting John Gano, class president, announced the committees who will make arrangements for commencement, the class party, baccalaureate, and class day.

Committees named are:

Roosevelt, Leahy At Odds Over America's Defenses On Coasts

Editor's Note: The following is the third in a series of dispatches by Lyle C. Wilson, Washington manager of the United Press, on America's national defense issues.

By LYLE C. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt and his chief naval adviser are far apart today in their estimates of how much protection the new "defense navy" will be able to guarantee the United States.

That fact coupled with the peculiar disposition of the American fleet since 1932 may in some degree explain insistent repetition of charges that the United States and Great Britain have established a naval understanding for guidance in emergencies.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, testified before the house naval affairs committee that for "complete and adequate" protection of both coasts the United States would need a navy at least twice as large as that contemplated under the new $800,000,000 program. That expenditure will increase the navy by approximately 20 per cent.

Mr. Roosevelt is not planning to double the navy but he is talking of naval defense in terms of both coasts in addition to the Panama canal and the outlying possessions. He reiterated that policy yesterday. On Jan. 28 in submitting his program to congress the president said our national defense was "inadequate for

DON'T NEED HELP, TROOPS TELL JAPAN

Nippon Patrols Turned Back In Attempt to 'Supervise' Settlement Orientals.

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI — United States marines turned back for the fourth time today an armed Japanese patrol of 13 men attempting to enter the American defense sector of Shanghai's International settlement.

The incident came as marine officers and Japanese authorities conferred in an attempt to settle amicably the issue of authority in the settlement.

The Americans maintained they were capable of patrolling the area without Japanese help. Japanese said their patrols were sent to the sector to supervise Japanese who entered it "informally."

A. M. Chapelain, postoffice director general, said he had been notified that Japanese censors would move in on postiffices "in the near future."

Battle Near River.

Meanwhile Japanese troops on the vast Lunghai corridor battlefront fought to establish a base for crossing the Yellow river in their drive to sever the Lunghai railway and threaten Hankow, China's temporary capital.

Japanese airplanes and artillery backed up ground forces fighting against stiff Chinese resistance at Fengchiu, on the river's northern bank opposite Kaifeng, Honan province capital and important Lunghai point.

Capture of Kaifeng would cut off the main route of retreat westward for the 400,000 Chinese troops defending the corridor which separates Japanese-conquered areas of North China and the Yangtze River valley.

At Kaifeng, several American women missionaries of the independent gospel boat mission were endangered and one was injured when Japanese airplanes bombed the mission's boats.

The boats were engaged in relief work among destitute Chinese along the Yellow river at the town of Tsaokang when the low-flying planes dropped their bombs.

Miss Helen Bailey of North Carolina, formerly connected with the Southern Presbyterian mission, suffered painful shrapnel injuries. Two of the mission's milk goats were killed

Barber Pokes Fun At Davey, State Board Cites Him

AKRON—(INS)—John M Curry, an East Akron barber, today had an order to appear before the state board of barber examiners to show cause why his license shouldn't be revoked.

The order said Curry used a dirty towel, failed to observe sanitary regulations, and did not keep instruments in proper containers.

Curry denied the charges. He was called to Columbus, he thinks, because he criticized Governor Davey.

A sign appeared in the window of Curry's shop one day last month. It read:

"No, no, no If you are hungry don't jump off the high level bridge That's right up old Davey's alley. Join a suicide squad and jump at his throat."

Curry said representatives of the state board appeared at his shop a short time later.

A few minutes later they were stuck hub deep in the mud that was left in their driveway after some work had been done there, and it took them several hours to get the car out. From now on they have decided not to mention their good fortune, even to themselves, until they're safely inside their home.

BOMBERS READY FOR LONG HOP

'Flying Fortresses' Warm Up For 6,000-Mile Flight to Buenos Aires.

(By United Press)

MIAMI, Fla. — Six "flying fortresses," poised for the longest overwater flight in army air corps history, roared through final tests today before the scheduled midnight take-off on a 6,000-mile flight to Buenos Aires.

Shortly after midnight, the six giant bombers will take off, form in loose formation and race south on a non-stop flight to Lima, Peru, 2,700 miles away.

Seven of the bombers, largest, fastest and most deadly aerial fighting machines in the army, were put through final tests today. But only six will wing south tonight to Buenos Aires where Sunday they will participate in the inauguration of President Roberto M. Ortiz of the Argentine republic.

Most of the Miami-to-Lima leg of the flight will be over water The planes will head southward over the tip of Cuba, near or over Jamaica, over the Panama Canal Zone and down the west coast of South America to Lima.

The fliers, commanded by Lieut. Col. Robert Olds, plan also to fly from Lima to Buenos Aires nonstop. The course will carry them southward down the west coast of South America to near Santiago, Chile, where they will swing eastward and upward over the snow-capped Andes mountains. They expect to rise to about 15,000 feet to cross the Andes.

THRILL GIRLS REACH END OF TRAIL; BOTH GET LIFE TERMS

(By International News Service)

NEWARK, N. J. — Hard-faced, steely, eyed Ethel Sohl and weak, fluttery Genevieve Owens reached the end of their thrill trail today. Found guilty yesterday of the first degree murder of William Barhorst, a bus driver, the pair was to be sentenced today to life imprisonment for the crime which brought their career as bandits to an abrupt end.

It was Ethel's gun in Ethel's hand that killed Barhorst while Genevieve sat in a stolen automobile waiting for the money her leader planned to take from the bus driver but the jury of 12 business men had no choice under the instructions of Judge Daniel J. Brennan but to convict or acquit on first degree murder charges and they convicted both.

Ethel's face was expressionless as the jury returned its verdict. Her eyes fixed at a point on the judge's bench she stood erect, motionless. Genevieve seemed to crumple, tears sprang to her eyes, she buried her face in her hands, her body shook with sobs. For a brief moment, Ethel turned to look at the weeping Genevieve. An expression of annoyance crossed her face, then she resumed her marble pose.

In a way the girls were lucky. Life imprisonment means parole in 15 or 20 years but that decision was not reached until the third ballot. On the first ballot, taken a few minutes after the jury had retired, six jurors voted immediately for the death penalty.

POWERS WON'T LEARN DATA ON CONSTRUCTION

Navy Abandons 13-Year-Old Policy as Work Progresses on 63 New Vessels.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The United States navy, abandoning a 13-year old policy, transferred to its "secret" file today all information on how work is progressing on warship construction.

Officially, the navy referred to the order merely as "in the interest of public welfare." Heretofore, periodical reports have listed each vessel's percentage of completion.

Speculation dealt with two possible reasons: That the navy wanted to give no foreign power any more information than necessary, and that there might have been some construction delays which officials thought could be overcome best in privacy.

A month ago a report indicated construction of 15 destroyers and two aircraft carriers would be delayed.

Work on 63 Ships.

The navy currently is building 63 warships and two auxiliaries. A comparison of reports indicated five, including the light cruiser Brooklyn, were completed during the last month.

It was assumed that the order for secrecy would continue during the construction of any new ships which congress might authorize under an $800,000,000 naval expansion bill.

President Roosevelt commented at his press conference yesterday that expert opinion advised possession of a navy able to protect both Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Mr. Roosevelt said experts contended there always was a possibility that the navy might be called on to defend both coasts at the same time.

He did not say he advocated construction of such a fleet, which would go far beyond any pending recommendation.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house naval committee said it might be possible for the house to begin debate Wednesday on the $800,000,000 program He strove to wind up public hearings which the committee has been holding for three weeks.

Representative Kniffin (D-Ohio) completed a draft of an amendment defining a "naval frontier" of the United States and stating that the fleet shall confine its "hostile operations" to that area.

Kniffin said he would oppose the proposed increased unless assured the fleet would not be "further misused in support of commercial traders in dangerous foreign places."

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

The Republicans.

PERHAPS Mr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the Republican policy committee of 200, which meets in Chicago on March 1, may evolve a plan to revitalize the party and equip it with a set of principles which all anti-New Dealers can accept. But it will be little less than a political miracle if he does.

The fact is, the Republicans are up against an almost impossible proposition. And it is easy to understand why some of the more canny leaders have disassociated themselves from the present reorganization movement. There is no unity as to the direction in which to steer. What, apparently, the party seeks to do is to be firmly conservative and appealingly liberal at the same time, which simply cannot be done. Barring a complete collapse of administration prestige, such an effort is likely to be both innocuous and futile. It is sure to be both if the approach at Chicago is made with the view of trying to recapture lost groups of voters instead of trying to agree on the sound and right position regardless of the effect upon favored voting groups.

PERHAPS these cannot be gotten back that way, but they cannot be gotten back any other way, either. For example, it is beyond dispute that the New Deal, through federal funds and favors, coupled with class appeals of one kind or another, has literally bought the bulk of the colored voters, the farm voters and the labor voters in the country. Their allegiance has been obtained by methods which menace the national solvency of the country and greatly strain its social and financial fabric. Any effort upon the part of the Republicans to cajole these voters either with promises of as much or more than the New Deal gives will be clearly futile, as was abundantly proved in the 1936 election. It also will be evidence that the Republican party is anxious only to win and does not present a really acceptable alternative to those who fundamentally oppose the New Deal philosophy and performance.

PRIVATELY, there are few Republican leaders—and, for that matter, few Democratic leaders, either—who will not agree—first, that the administration of relief should be returned to the states and cities; second, that the system of crop-control subsidies to the farmers is economically unsound, ruinously costly and centralizes a bureaucratic control at Washington inconsistent with the American system and dangerous to possess, third, that the labor legislation, as exemplified in the Wagner act, is lopsided and should be amended so as to make labor unions amenable to law and remove the power of a partisan board to choke business; fourth, that the social security act is grotesquely complicated and unworkable; that it needs a thorough, scientific redrafting if it is not ultimately to contribute to national chaos.

REGARDLESS of parties, most thoughtful men are in accord upon these four points. But when it comes to taking an open stand on them, the disposition of the politician is to equivocate and evade. In each of the 4 directions there has been developed a great vested voting group, which candidates and parties fear to antagonize. The result is that year by year the groups grow in size, in political power, and in cost to the treasury. They steadily press on toward the point where all control over them will be lost and there will be nothing to do but watch the nation rush toward the inevitable calamity.

EXCEPT when talking for publication, there are not many men in public life who will dispute this statement of the case. In the senate today there is hardly a handful who would not privately subscribe to it. More of them will do so publicly now than a year ago, because the abuses are more clear and the popular reaction is greater. Yet such is the power of the organized minority that many public men still think they are compelled to continue in a direction they do not want to go and avoid condemnation of a condition they know ought to be condemned. Under the circumstances, there is an opportunity for the Republicans at Chicago to perform a national service. If, casting aside all thought of the effect upon the lost groups of subsidized voters, and thinking of the people as a whole, they simply, briefly and clearly take an unequivocal position on these four points—relief, labor legislation, crop control and social security—avoiding windy platitudes and compromises, breast-beating promises and mere denunciation — if they can do that, they might strike a note that would ring from one end of the country to the other. They need not complicate their declaration with sonorous utterances about taxes, economy and budget balancing, on which there is general acquiescence, anyhow.

IF THEY can come clean on those four points — the Republicans might recover not only the respect of the country but their own self-respect. But it will take courage to do it. They not only have to disregard the subsidized groups but they have got not to care whether they are denounced by the demagogues on one side as reactionary or by those on the other side as radical. If they find out what they really believe on these four points and make it understandably clear to the people, they will have done a worth-while thing—and at least have made it possible for honest men to feel at home in their party They might not win, but they would have a foundation upon which they could build. At least, they would justify their existence, whether they later wanted to coalesce or continue under the old name.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Unreel parade: There's at least one movie company convinced that spelling is important. . . . It had a set filled with extras and painted signs. . . . One of the signs read "Artic Circle" and they shot for three days before some literate gentleman happened along to change it to "Arctic." . . . They had to re-shoot, at a cost of $50,000!

If Paulette Goddard plays Scarlett O'Hara, Selznick's search for an "unkown" will end about the way most such quests end. . . . Paulette is an obscure little girl who has been kept skillfully in the public eye about four years, her only major film appearance the lead in an obscure little picture called "Modern Times" with some unknown comedian whose name I can't remember — although there've been reports that she married him. . . . However, Selznick did pick an unknown for "Tom Sawyer," which evens the score.

Some wear monocles through choice—Director Fritz Lang is one—but others have monocles forced on them. . . . Claude Allister came to Hollywood in '29, at the start of sound, and couldn't get into a studio. . . . "If you're an Englishman, where's your monocle?" officials demanded. . . . So Allister bought a special model, with little roughened edges to keep it from slipping—and hasn't been out of work since. . . . He wears it currently in "Kentucky Moonshine."

On the same musical set was concrete evidence that Marjorie Weaver has "arrived." . . . David Bruler, directing, called her from her dressing room for a scene. . . . "Just a minute until I fix my lip line," she responded. . . . Quick as that, three make-up experts descended on her, with alarums and excursions. . . . She didn't have a chance to lift a lipstick . . . And one make-upper was delegated to stand by at all times.

Stop the presses: Priscilla Lane is fond of wild flowers.

Paul Hurst's feet in "No Time to Marry" are not his own. . . . Hurst plays a cop, but his feet are not flat and his arches are unbroken. . . . The movies are not tradition-up-setters. . . . When they needed a close-up of the policeman's feet, they hired a flat-footed extra to "foot double."

CHI SIGMA SORORITY INDUCTS CANDIDATES

Formal Ceremony Held at Mansfield-Leland Hotel for New Members; Miss Wilma Snider In Charge of Program Arrangements.

FORMAL INITIATION of candidates and installation was held last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel by members of Chi Sigma sorority. A theme of "hearts" was carried out in the decorations at the three tables arranged in the Chinese room in a U-form. The centerpiece was of red roses, carnations and white chrysanthemums with tapers, cupids and hearts.

At the side of each place was an old-fashioned nosegay and red tapers in candelabra lighted the room. A program was presented following the dinner. Miss Wilma Snider, committee on arrangements chairman and toastmistress, opened the program. Miss Grace Ladd gave a piano solo and was followed by a toast to Chi Sigma which Miss Florence Nail offered. A vocal solo was given by Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller who was accompanied by Miss Eleanor Clingan The welcome to new members and the toast to the old members were given by Miss Mary Lou Hout and Miss Emily Cox. Mrs. E. J. Houseton accompanied the sorority when members sang the Chi Sigma song.

The formal installation of officers preceded the dinner and the pledges were accepted at this time. The pledges were the Misses Clingan, Miller, Ladd and Cox.

Bridge was then played with prizes being won by Mrs Clifford Heaton and Miss Irene Holcombe. Members of the committee assisting Miss Snider were Miss Margaret McFadden, Miss Helen Kuneman, Mrs Arthur Knight, Mrs. E. J. Houseton and Mrs. H. G. Linham.

Lose Bad Breath— Keep Your Friends

In spite of all that has been written about bad breath, thousands still lose friends through this unpleasant fault. Yet sour stomach with its resultant bad breath is frequently only the result of constipation. Just as it can also cause loss of appetite, early weakness, nervousness, mental dullness.

So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. All druggists, 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

New Linens Should Be Washed Before Using

Tempting though it is to put brand new linens right into circulation, control that impulse until they have been washed. It is surprising how much soil can sift into the apparently spotless recesses of a new table cloth or towel. Though the pieces may have been clean when they left the factory they are bound to be affected by dusty air and the fingering of sales clerks and prospective purchasers. Even though they look fairly fresh, they are practically "used" and unfit for the table or for contact with your skin until washed When you put them in the washtub you will realize how soiled they are. Often two or three extra heavy suds baths are needed to wash new linens clean and to offset the presence of fillers.

This warning does not apply to articles that are sealed in containers which bear the manufacturers' assurance that their contents were laundered before they were wrapped.

WHITE BREAD

Two cakes yeast, one-half cup lukewarm water, two and one-fourth cups lukewarm milk or water, one and one-half tablespoons lard, one and one-fourth tablespoons salt, four tablespoons sugar, nine cups flour. Add water to yeast and set in warm place. Mix next four ingredients. Add yeast to this mixture and then add flour all at once. Kneed fifteen minutes. Set in warm place until double in bulk. Knead lightly and let rise 30 minutes. Mold into loaves and let rise until light. Bake fifteen minutes at 400 degrees, then 30 to 40 minutes at 350. This method is quicker and easier than others and results in a fine texture product.

ALPHA PI SIGMA MAKES DANCE ARRANGEMENTS

Misses Pfaff, Brown, Kurrick on Committee In Charge of Plans for St. Valentine Affair to Be Given Saturday Evening.

AT THE PAL PARTY of the Alpha Pi Sigma sorority last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, final arrangements for the St. Valentine dance, which will be held Saturday night, were made. Members of the committee which is in charge of arranging the semi-formal affair are the Misses Esther Pfaff, Phylis Brown and Virginia Kurrick.

Jimmy Sans' orchestra will play for dancing from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m. in the ballroom of the hotel.

At the party, which was arranged by Mrs. Richard Vahar and Mrs. Charles E. Ticknor, a buffet supper was served and bridge was played. Prizes were won by Miss Marie Andreeg and Miss Anne Hagar. Pals for the coming year were chosen and the past year's pals were disclosed.

The next regular meeting will be March 1 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

C. L. of C. Names New Committees; Plans Party

Mrs. R. C. Straub was in charge of the regular business meeting of the C. L. of C. last night at which time committees were appointed and plans were made for the next benefit bingo party. Members of the committee on arrangements for the party, which will be held Feb. 23 at St. Peter's Catholic church, were appointed.

Following the business meeting in the Bird building club rooms, bridge was played and prizes were awarded to each table. The next regular meeting will be a social meeting in the club rooms, March 1, with Mrs. A. J. McHugh as chairman.

Don't Expose Infants To Colds Doctor Advises

Suppose that some grownup in your family contracts a cold. You can isolate the ill person or keep the baby in his own room. In either case, if there is no contact, the chances are against the cold's spreading to the child.

But suppose that it is you, the mother, who unfortunately has all the symptoms of a cold, and that there is no one else to care for the baby. What should you do? Wear a mask over your nose and mouth when you are in the baby's room This mask may be of several thicknesses of cloth tied with tapes at the back of your head. It will not be uncomfortable to breathe through if it is not too tight.

Keep the baby away from your room if possible, and surely from your bed. Wear a clean, washable gown or large apron when you are handling him. Use disposable handkerchiefs, and wash your hands before touching the baby or preparing his food.

In times of apparent epidemics of flu or colds, do not allow visitors to see or handle your baby, and caution the family to avoid crowds.

Married But She Loves Another

By VIRGINIA LEE

Self discipline is one badly needed quality in the world today. So said Miss Frances Perkins, U. S. secretary of labor, in a recent address which I heard. It is needed, she says, to bring about peace and stability in the industrial world. And how much it is needed to bring peace and tranquility into our private lives!

To many of us what we want badly is what we must have. We have never been taught that there are some things we cannot rightly have, and that we must accept the fact and adjust our lives accordingly. There is no use in our moaning and being dramatic about such things, either. We must get along without them—and we can, and we can even be happy without them—at least we can train ourselves to be philosophical about them.

All of which leads up to the following letter:

"DEAR MISS LEE: I am writing you and hope I get a nice answer.

"I am a married woman and I have a child. I was married five years ago. You see I had to get married and now I am sorry. I am in love with another man. I am 21 years old and he is too."

Then this young woman who signs herself UNHAPPY WIFE, tells how she slips out to be with her friend. And also how her husband struck at this man when they all met on the street, but she put herself between them and received the blow instead. Her husband is good to her, she writes, but she is so unhappy she grieves all the time. When she has friends in her home she hardly hears what they are saying because she is thinking of him Worry has made her weak and the doctor tells her her heart is bad, and she is likely to go any minute.

"I'd just as soon die for him," she writes. She can't get this man out of her mind, she says, although she has tried. "Please, Miss Lee, give me a good answer," is her plea. "I love him and want him for myself."

By "a good answer," I suppose you mean for me to suggest some way for you to divorce your husband and marry this other boy, you poor, undisciplined child. But that is not a simple matter. Whether you "had to marry" your husband or not, he evidently loves you and wants you. If you try to divorce him you will have to show that you are untrue to him and that means you will lose your baby. Are you willing to give the child up? A child needs its own father and mother, and surely you owe him that when you have already caused him to have a stain on his name.

You see, my dear, you did not control yourself when you were going with the man to whom you now are married, and whom I suppose at that time you thought you loved How can you be sure you really are in love "for keeps" with this other man? You may just be fascinated by him, and if you have your own way you will find he isn't the one, either. He surely doesn't respect you as he should as he makes love to another man's wife And how can you trust him under the circumstances?

Dear, you cannot learn any earlier, that happiness does not come through throwing aside your responsibilities and taking your own way, no matter who is hurt by it. You think you are suffering now because this young man seems so desirable to you. I am afraid you will suffer even more if you go barging through life insisting upon having your own way and letting nothing stop you.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Are You Over 200? Stay 'Slicked Up'

AVERAGE MAKE-UP . . . Careless hair arrangement and hurried make-up detract from good appearance, as Amanda Snow, radio singer, shows.

IS GREATLY IMPROVED . . . Miss Snow, who weighs 287 pounds, combs her hair up and back at the left—to give an effect of height.

BY CAREFUL GROOMING. She also swirls her hair into a halo-curl at the right and applies rouge and eye make-up carefully.

By BETTY CLARKE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

IF THERE'S one woman who must look all slicked-up it's the woman who weighs more than 200 pounds.

There's no reason why the words "stout" and "careless" should go together in most people's minds.

All it takes in some bias-free analysis and a little over-time grooming.

Three things should get special consideration from most stout people: hair arrangement, rouge-placing and eye make-up.

The Hair First.

First, about hair-dos:

Since most over-weight women have full faces they never should part their hair in the center because it makes the face appear even broader that it is. However, center parts add to height—so it's often a good idea to part the hair as near the center as possible . . . and then taper it off to the sides.

Instead of spreading the hair out at the ides it should be combed back from the face—and up. True, more of the face will show, but the general effect will be to make the wearer appear taller. Curls at the top of the head—but not in Kewpie doll effects—will help. Swirling in back also minimizes the effect of breadth.

Wear Rouge High.

Rouge should be applied high on the cheeks—in a triangle extending to the corner of the eye (not lower than the mouth-line) and out to the ear, with the heaviest part coming at the lower corner of the eye.

Drawing attention to the eyes often will divert it from a double chin. The trick is to use more eye make-up. That means mascara on the lashes, eye shadow extended a little beyond the eye line, and perhaps a slight extension of the brows. Too much of the latter will make the face look broader, however, and defeat the purpose.

New Styles In Coiffures Are Straight

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty."

WAVES AND curls, it seems, will not be as much in evidence as they formerly were. Straight hair, designers claim, is far more youthful, and they are giving this fact a great deal of consideration in designing the latest coiffure fashions.

Of course waves and curls are not out of the fashion picture entirely, but partially straight hair is having an important place in many of the new hair styles.

Personally, I don't think that it will be easy to induce women to give up their waves and ringlets. Curly hair is far too popular, and it usually does present a most attractive appearance. Hair that is overly curly certainly does not look any too well, however, and often both permanently waved and naturally curly hair appear provokingly kinky.

As a matter of fact, perfectly straight hair often presents a more attractive appearance than too curly hair, because it can be neatly arranged and appear well groomed while kinky hair has a most discouraging habit of looking untidy and uncared for.

The best procedure for softening and smoothing out kinky hair and making the waves appear soft and even is first to submit the hair to a hot oil treatment. Of course, however, the hair should be brushed thoroughly with a flexible-bristled brush before the oil treatment is administered. This brushing will remove any accumulated dirt, dust and grime that may have accumulated on the hair and scalp.

Vinegar Rinse Helps.

After the hair has been given the oil treatment, it should be thoroughly shampooed and given a vinegar rinse as the last rinse. This rinse should be composed of half a glass of vinegar and a pint of clear water. The vinegar tends to soften the hair and overcome, to some extent, its wiriness.

After giving your hair the hot oil treatment and subsequent shampoo, remove most of the moisture from your locks with a warm, lintless towel, and apply a heavy waving lotion. Then finger wave your hair in wide, loose waves and pin the waves securely in place.

Permit the hair to dry thoroughly and then remove the pins and gently comb out the hair, pushing the waves back into place with your fingertips as you comb it.

It is a good idea, too, if your hair is very kinky, to spray it with a bit of fine brilliantine after your wave has dried. A really good brilliantine will not only give your hair added luster and brilliance, but will also lubricate it and help to keep your waves smoothly in place.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Feb. 17.

Conflicting conditions prevail on this day, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. Sudden and abrupt events may seem to have a beneficial influence on new matters, plans, budgets, credits but, at the same time, old interests may develop with tendencies toward delays, postponements and impediments.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which there are contradictory adventures. The element of the surprising, sudden and quite unforeseen may assist in finances, credits, budgets and, in promoting new propositions.

A child born on this day may have a mind of very expansive views and aspirations. It may be sound and studious, at the same time having little quirks or singular slants difficult to fathom. Despite frustrations it may have a successful career.

In preparing mushrooms, start with firm, light-colored plants. Soak them five minutes in cold water to loosen any grit, then scrub them with a stiff brush. They do not have to be peeled. Cut off stems and dice, slice or leave the tops whole. Put them in a double boiler, add a tablespoonful of lemon juice for each two cups of mushrooms and cook until the mushrooms are light brown. The liquid produced in cooking is fine for soups and sauces.

Here are six nice vegetable plate combinations: (1) Broccoli with Hollandaise sauce, beets, banana fritters, green beans; (2) creamed eggs on toast, cheese-stuffed celery, buttered spinach; (3) poached eggs in spinach nests, brown eggplant fingers, creamed onions; (4) corn souffle with creamed mushrooms, spiced beets, asparagas, pickles; (5) broiled tomatoes on cheese toast, creamed carrots and turnips, spiced pear; (6) creamed peas, mashed squash, French fried potatoes, buttered beets.

In sewing buttons back in place on upholstered furniture put the button on the loop end of a wire hairpin. Push the opposite end of the hairpin through the fabric and catch the button with a heavy needle and strong thread. Remove the hairpin and finish sewing on the button.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

AS I followed Dicky into the hall after his passionate invocation to me to stand by and not misunderstand no matter what I might hear in the next few weeks or days—my head was in a whirl, my heart a cold lump of fear. And then then, as if sensing my feeling, he turned back to me with a quick look around the corridor for a possible listener.

"Don't look so scared!" he said, smiling down at me. "You aren't going to be involved in a murder case, nor are you going to have grounds for a trip to Reno. But your faith in my common sense and fair play to you may be sadly stretched That's all."

That ought to be enough for any wife to face, I told myself But aloud I only said, forcing a smile the while:

"I'm not afraid of anything. Please believe that. And—I'm standing by no matter what it is you need of me."

"My own girl!" he said huskily, stooped and kissed me swiftly, and then turned toward the stairway.

"Shall I tell Jim to load the car?" he said in as commonplace accents as if his emotional outburst had never occurred."

Fights for Poise.

"Please!" I said. I could not have managed another syllable, and when I reached Mary's door I had to stand in front of it for a full second before I could regain my poise sufficiently to present a calm, unruffled front to the people inside. And when, at Miss Whitlock's "Come in," I entered, it seemed to me that the room was swirling with women.

The next instant, of course, I realized that the room held but three occupants, my mother-in-law, Mary and Miss Whitlock Mary was seated before the triple mirror on her dresser, comb in hand, putting a last touch to her coiffure. Her grandmother was in another chair watching her, and Miss Whitlock was standing by the luggage bench, strapping a bag which I recognized as her own and which she had brought with her the night before. Unhurriedly she pulled the last strap before she straightened herself and looked at me, a look which suddenly held shrewd comprehension that I had just been through some unusual experience. But tactfully she did not even inquire if I felt fit for the journey, simply nodding in casual greeting as Mary exclaimed:

"Oh, Auntie Madge! Are we really going now? I'd almost stopped hoping."

"As soon as you and Miss Whitlock are ready," I told her. "Jim is packing the car now, and I shall be at its door in five minutes."

"You won't have anything on us," she retorted. "Will she, Miss Whitlock?"

Madge Is Scolded.

"We shall be there with banners," the nurse said smiling, and I sped back to my own room where I threw some last minute toilet things into my fitted bag, donned my hat and coat, gave a last look around my room to see that I had left nothing I needed, and, with bag and purse in my hands, went down the stairs to the back hall where I found everyone gathered.

"Why did you carry that down?" Dicky demanded, taking it from me. "Why didn't you call me?"

It was the elaborate, almost exaggerated courtesy which he always displays in the matter of a woman carrying luggage. Sometimes I am tempted to wish he would transfer it to the gibing speech with which he so often tantalizes me But when I see the marked discourtesy of many other husbands, I thank my particular little joss for the meticulous courtesy of mine.

"When I can't carry that downstairs," I said smiling, "I shall retire to a wheel chair and knitting."

Finally Depart.

"You might have retired to a morgue if you had fallen downstairs with that and broken your neck," he growled in true husbandly fashion. The familiar, commonplace words oddly enough eased the tension of my nerves more than anything else he could have said to me. Then Miss Whitlock, unobtrusively but effectively, maneuvered her patient away from her grandmother's tearful farewell, and in another two minutes I was in the driver's seat of my car with Mary by my side and Miss Whitlock in the rear, flanked by the luggage that overflowed the trunk. We were finally embarked upon the adventure, which, secretly, I was afraid might have a heart-breaking ending for Mary.

My Neighbor Says:

Early Spring planting is advised for fruit trees so that they may get a good start before hot weather sets in.

Do not throw away mushroom stems. Boil them, drain off the liquid in which they are cooked and add it to the cream of mushroom soup.

To make baked potatoes dry and mealy, when they are tender put a fork at least twice into each potato to let the steam escape.

THEATER

IT IS FITTING that "The Buccaneer," which depicts a stirring episode in American history should be shown on a Mansfield screen in the month which naturally inspired many patriotic meetings and programs. The picture, which opens at the Ohio with a midnight matinee Saturday night, was made with the lavish DeMille hand and depicts the part that the greatest pirate of the seas played in saving the United States in the war of 1812. Or at least he turned the tide of an important and crucial battle, that of New Orleans, when the English forces sought to take the city. LaFitte may have been a rogue to the rest of the world but to the people of New Orleans he is still a hero, just as he was on the night of the great victory ball when the city turned out to heroize rough old Andy Jackson, commander of the American forces. LaFitte (La-feet) and the part he played in the battle of New Orleans are little known in history.

* * *

Bennett and Fonda.

Joan Bennett and Henry Fonda play the principal roles in the picture which Walter Wanger made from the novel, "I Met My Love Again" by Allene Cirliss, and which the Ohio offers for the last half of the week. It is the story of a girl and boy love affair and engagement which is interrupted when the girl meets a gay sophisticate with whom she elopes. When this romance turns to tragedy and the girl returns to meet her first love again, the scene has changed and an interesting battle ensues between the girl and a tense young modern. Alan Marshall, Louise Platt and Dame May Whitty are the major supporting players.

* * *

Never Gets Her Man.

Glenda Farrell is in a peculiar position in her character of Torchy Blane, newspaper woman, in the series of pictures she is making. She's is attractive, young with a wardrobe of stunning clothes,—but she never get her man. Nor will she until the series is ended, for that would spoil the stories. She plays a newspaper woman in love with a fairly dumb police lieutenant who works with her on murder mysteries, but their feud is what keeps the series going. In the latest one, "Blondes At Work," in which she solves another murder, to the discomfiture of her detective, she slips a particularly fast one over on him. The detective is portrayed by Barton MacLane.

* * *

Dramatic Theme.

How one lie told by a neurotic child wrecked the lives of three sincere young people is the dramatic theme of "These Three," which the Majestic is showing today and through Thursday. The picture, which stars Miaiam Hopkins, Merle Oberon and Joel McCrea, with Bonita Granville as the child, is one of series of revials which are being presented by the Majestic. Most of the action takes place in or near a private school for young girls. The second feature on the mid week bill is a murder mystery which revolves around a little black doll on the murdered man's desk, and which gives the picture its title, "The Black Doll."

* * *

Hunter Is Britisher.

Ian Hunter, the tall, dignified actor who plays opposite Bette Davis in "That Certain Woman," comes to the American screen by way of the English stage, having made his Hollywood debut in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." He remained to play in "Another Dawn" with Kay Francis, and has appeared in other Bette Davis pictures. In the current one, he is the man who aids the widow of a slain gangster to obtain a foothold on respectability and success in the business world. Henry Fonda is the Number One romantic interest, however. A comedy featuring Zasu Pitts and James Gleason, "Four Naughty Girls" is on the same bill at the Ritz..

PICKING THE SUIT

IF YOUR side possesses two solid suits, the better trump is the one which is more nearly equal in length between your own hand and dummy, with the more unbalanced one as a side suit. Selecting the balanced suit as trump enables you to get plenty of discards of losers on the unbalanced suit. Choosing the unbalanced suit as trump leaves you nothing on which to get many discards.

After South's opening bid on this deal of 2-Spades, North called 3-Clubs, South 3-Diamonds, North 4-Diamonds. South 5-Spades, North 6-Diamonds and South 7-Spades.

West led the heart K, which South won with the A. The declarer ran his six spade tricks and the five diamonds, but West retained his club A and East the heart J, so that the contract was set by the loss of one trick.

When North bid 3-Clubs over South's 2-Spades, he did not guarantee the club A, but his raise in diamonds and the rebid of that suit certainly indicated that he held four cards. It would therefore have been far safer for South to have played the contract at 7-Diamonds rather than 7-Spades. At diamonds, the set-up spades would have taken care of the losing hearts in dummy and the heart 10 could have been ruffed.

Tomorrow's Problem.

How should South play to make 3-No Trumps after the lead of the club 2?

MANN REACHES PERFECT MENTAL ATTITUDE, EXPECTS TO BEAT LOUIS.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

SUMMIT, N. J.—"Now when I'm champion—"

No, that isn't Max Schmeling talking. It isn't Farr or Adamick or even Harry Thomas. It's Nathan Mann., born Manchetti in New Haven, Conn., who is down here training for a world's heavyweight championship fight with Joe Louis, one week from tonight; a fight to which nobody is paying the slightest heed.

But if you look at Mann in the traning ring, let him grab your hand and impale you with his earnest eye—you wonder. You wonder, in fact, whether this match that started out as a "warm up" for Louis isn't going to get so hot that Joseph might wind up trying to handle it with a pair of pincers. This gent down here has reached the perfect mental attitude, a point that's achieved only once in the life of the average fighter. He wants to eat somebody alive. He's what is known as a "hungry" fighter.

"We're broke," he said, simply, and he was speaking of his family up in Connecticut. "This is one I gotta win. I asked for it. I demanded it. Now I've got it and it won't get away from me. Mister, I can be awful tough about anything I want that bad; too tough for this colored boy. I've been watching him for more than a year now and I know what I'm saying. He's on his way out."

* * *

NO DOUBT, too, this challenger, whom nobody conceded a chance when the match was made, has been hearing stories about Louis in training over at Pompton Lakes, where it is said that the camp is somewhat perturbed over the champion's weight. It is added that they've tried to get him down under 200 pounds but can't, with the result that his timing is "off" by just that ominous fraction of a second, so trivial in other things but often so vital in the ring. It can mean everything, with a counter-puncher like Louis.

As for Mann, he's strong, hard, tough, rough and rowdy, with a boisterous punch. All they've been able to say against him, in fact, is that he's slow and, therefore, hasn't got anything to lick Louis with. But they're even a little wrong about that. He's got desperation.

Class A Church League Quintets Continue Title Race.

First Lutheran clashes with Mayflower. First M. E plays Episcopal, Park Avenue takes on St. Pauls, Central M. E. meets St. Johns and Temple Emanuel tackles United Presbyterian in games in the Class A Church league at the Y. M. C. A. tonight. The opening affair between the Lutheran and Mayflower outfits gets under way at 7 o'clock.

HE'S NOT CHAMP NOW

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Former Heavyweight Wrestling Champion Everett Marshall, who would have nothing to do with the wild Duseks when he wore the crown, has reversed his position and will take on Ernie, one of the more able of the Nebraska brothers, here tonight.

Whizzer White Rejects Pittsburgh Offer.

BOULDER, Col.—(AP)—On to Oxford and more education, then probably a career at law, still comprise a greater lure to All-American Whizzer White than a $15,000 offer for a year of professional football.

The Colorado university quarterback, whose elusive feet and ramrod stiff-arm made him the nation's leading scorer last fall, disclosed last night his conditional rejection of an offer from Art Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National professsional football league.

Register 10th Straight Victory By Defeating Galion, 41 to 36.

Coming from behind after trailing for three periods, the fast stepping Yuncker Sports comibne marked up its 10th straight cage victory of the season last night by defeating the Globe Clothiers of Galion, 41 to 36, on the Galion Junior high court.

The Yuncker outfit, present leaders in the City Class A league, came through with 14 points in the last frame to overcome a 30 to 27 lead, and go on to defeat the Clothiers.

The Clothiers, who have not suffered a defeat in the last 15 games, took a 10 to 8 lead in the opening quarter and were ahead at halftime, 19 to 13.

Al Strickler was the offensive star, dropipng in 14 points to lead the individual scoring. George topped the losers with 12

Supplies Face League Leader

Win Prospects Dull For Athletic Quintet.

The league leading Rex Billiards tackle the lowly Mansfield Athletic Supplies in the feature game on the Senior league program at the Friendly House Thursday night.

The Cuemen, riding on the top of the heap a game ahead of the Benny Hi Notes, are not expected to face a lot of trouble. The Supplies have scored only one league victory this season.

In the other tilts, the Hi Notes face the Zeigler Independents and the Blue Goose outfit meets the Dinger Independents. The Billiard-Supply affair is scheduled for 6:30.

Joe Not Old Joe

Louis Looks Lazier, Easier to Hit In Drills for Nathan Mann Match.

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion, looks lazier and easier to hit than a bear filled with honey as he nears the end of his training for next Wednesday night's title defense against Natie Mann, the chubby New Englander, at Madison Square Garden.

Joe obviously isn't taking the 15-round encounter too seriously. He has been working only every other day and all his sparring partners still are sound of wind and limb, which is unusual around a Louis camp. He will put on the big gloves only twice more, tomorrow and Saturday, before climbing through the ropes.

It's All Mystifying.

All of which is somewhat mystifying, because Mann doesn't look like a soft touch and his record reads well. He honestly thinks he's going to lift the crown.

Joe Louis

Still, when we watched Louis fumble around yesterday and get nailed with several smoking rights by a Canadian named Jack Tebo, the man on the right said: "Don't go wrong on this one. Louis will stop Mann inside four." It's all very strange.

Louis must be a lot more dangerous than he looks right now, or even than he looked against Tommy Farr last summer. His explanation of that one is, of course, that he caved in two knuckles on his right hand in an early round. But that doesn't explain his getting punched around by a couple of $20-a-day clay pigeons, like he was yesterday.

For all his painful experiences with Max Schmeling and Farr, the 23-year-old champion still lays himself wide open when he misses a left hook. Tebo really shook him with a couple of right crosses, the kind that Mann is drilling on. Old Jack Blackburn, Joe manager, looked unhappy, but Joe seemed unworried. Someone told him Mann never had fought more than 10 rounds before.

"That so?" said the champion. "Well, I'll help him keep his record clean."

Loses Innocent Look.

Which indicates the extent to which Louis has grown up, even if he hadn't let his new whiskers grow wild for the last couple of weeks to prove it. He can wisecrack pretty well now.

Baptists, Lutherans Continue 2-team Fight For First Place

Park Avenue Club Offered Trouble by South Main, While Rival Wins Easily.

BASKETEERS of First Lutheran and Park Avenue Baptist continued their two-team fight for first place in the Church Class B league last night as they came through with victories at the Y. M. C. A. to remain tied for the lead.

The Lutherans, led by Zeigler, walloped a four-man First Presbyterian outfit 65 to 10, while the Baptist quintet eked out a 31 to 30 decision over the 10th place South Main club.

Zeigler collected 21 points for the Lutherans, who after an opening quarter in which they were held scoreless, went on a scoring spree to grab a 20 to 5 lead at the half. The Preshy team led, 2 to 0, in the opening stanza. The Lutherans were ahead, 46 to 9, as they went into the final chapter.

The South Main aggregation battled the co-leading Baptist team on even terms for three periods, but allowed the winners to outscore it by a single point in the final quarter to win. The two outfits went into the last chapter with the score deadlocked at 22-all.

In the other games, First M E defeated Central M. E. 34 to 20, Mayflower walloped B'Nai Jacob, 32 to 8, and First Christian beat St. John's, 20 to 12.

TEE PARTIES ONLY ONE ITEM ON WIVES' SKED

A GOLFER'S WIFE

What a life! enviously sighs Miss Average Girl as she reads of the countrywide resort-to-resort tour of the professional golfers and their wives. But Mrs. Golf Professional will assure her its an exacting life. Mrs Jimmy Thompson clips a story for the scrapbook. That's only one of her jobs. Golfing wives are valet, pal and counselor.

WASHES SOCKS

Mrs. Thompson, the former Viola Dana, star of the silent films, packs and unpacks in the hurried moves. Like other wives, she personally hand-launders her husband's golf socks. Let them go to a laundry? Never! They might shrink or a thread might pull and knot up to distract Jimmy's attention from that all important puter.

KNITS AND GOSSIPS . . .

Some golfers want their wives to tramp along in the gallery. Others find their wives' presence makes them more nervous, and these "golfing widows" sit around the club house, knitting and gossiping. They live under a strain, too, for the matter of a missed putt decides whether they'll get that new fur coat. Shown knitting are Mrs. Abe Espinosa (left), Mrs. Ben Hogan and Mrs. Harold McSpaden.

BUT DOESN'T PLAY GOLF

However, it's not all high tension. Here are Mrs. McSpaden (left), Mrs. Neil Christian, Mrs. Hogan and Mrs. Bryon Nelson enjoying an outdoor bridge tea. There are dances, movies and dinner parties at night. And at resorts, where most winter tournaments are played, there is tennis and horseback riding for the girls who enjoy these sports. Few of the wives play golf and none are good at the game.

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

COACH RUSS MURPHY'S worries increased after he read yesterday's Associated Press report that "the tip is out that Tiffin Columbian, with an 8-2 record, is the team to watch" in the district tournament to be staged in Sandusky. Mansfield high engages the Tiffin club in the first game of the district elimination.

There're doing a lot of shoutin' up Fostoria-way about Walter Wellman and Jerry's Insurance Keglers. They added a new chapter to Fostoria bowling history the other afternoon, Wellman shooting a spectacular 804 to lead the Agents to a record-breaking 3307 in a Northern Ohio Traveling ing league against Norwalk. Wellman, who predicted an 800 for himself some weeks ago after registering a big 700, put together games of 267, 269 and 268 to account for a pretty consistent piece of bowling. Jerry's team, with which Leland Stock bowled before his return to the city, rolled a high game of 1135.

* * *

WELLMAN'S sensational scores semind us of Harry Mehock's feat. The high school track coach is becoming a regular demon on the alleys. His 256 game this week is proof of improvement.

Judging from the runaway race the reserves are making in the junior varsity league, Marion high school will be represented by crack cage aggregations for years to come. If we recall correctly, the junior Presidents did not lose more than one or two games last season. They are representing the varsity this campaign ,and are on top of the conference. The current reserves are undefeated.

* * *

Mt. Vernon appears to be Marion's chief rival for the N. C. O. title, and Eddie Lore is the reason the Jackets are pressing the leader. Lore is one of the finest basketball players ever to perform in the conference. He has virtually cinched the individual scoring title with 110 points in only eight games.

Clyde (Kid) Stahl, who throws a lot of gloves for a little fellow, will return to the ring wars a week from Friday. Stahl, who held the amateur bantamweight championship of this district a couple of years ago, will mark his return in a bout on a Galion fistic card a week from next Friday. The little slugger fought professionally after he quit the amateurs.

The distance an official travels while handling a basketball game might come under unimportant items, but statistically-minded fans might find the results of a a check interesting. In handling a pair of games the other night, E. M. McCaskey, one-time Lorain high coach, hooked a pedometer to his pants. It checked 14 miles after the games.

Ontario, Butler and Shiloh Loom as Class of Tourney

Madison, Lexington, Lucas, Plymouth Rate Chances In County Elimination Opening In Mansfield Gym Saturday.

AN OPEN FIGHT loomed today as Richland county Class B high school cagers continued drills in preparation for their annual tournament to open at Mansfield high Saturday.

Springfield township of Ontario, defending champion; Butler and Shiloh are regarded as the strongest entries in this winter's elimination, but Madison, Lexington, Plymouth and Lucas cannot be denied in the pre-tournament reckoning.

Bellville, Union and Adario are the other entrants, and, judging from their season records, their hopes to advance are not encouraging.

Stacks Up Strong.

Ontario, which represented this district in the state tournament last spring, is heavily favored in many quarters. While the Warriors are not as strong as last season when they registered a string of victories unbroken until they reached the state finals, the club stacks up one of the more formidable aggregations in the county.

Built around Matt Hager and Dick Casad, the Warriors have compiled the best record of any of their rivals to date. Their record of 13 games is marked by only one defeat.

Ontario's chances to repeat are hard to dispute in view of the fact that it continued it's supremacy in the county league so impressively.

Shiloh, Twin-Valley league champion, has also lost only one game, but it has won one less than Ontario. The Drummer Boys form a high-scoring team, which registered 11 straight victories before bowing to the crack Mansfield high reserves last week.

Definite Threat.

Butler, one of the pre-season favorites in the county league, is a definite threat. The Bulldogs' only defeats were suffered in games with Ontario, and one of the two setbacks was the direct result of a basket scored by a Butler player.

The Rams of Madison have been kept idle for several weeks by the smallpox outbreak, but as they administered the only defeat to Ontario's record, they must be rated a chance.

Although winning only half of their games, the Lucas Cubs cannot be denied a chance because any team possessing two dangerous scorers as Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford might upset the dope.

A slow starter, Lexington has developed into one of the stronger county quintets. The Minutemen have always been dangerous tournament performers, and there is no reason to suspect that they will not be this year.

As Plymouth is represented by a new team, it is doubtful whether it will be a contender. However, the green team has shown improvement, and might be dangerous in a short tournament.

Union and Bellville have won one game apiece this season, while Adario has scored only two victories.

Two Games Saturday.

Only two games are scheduled in the first round Saturday night at the Tyger lair. The first game at 8 p. m. will send Lexington against Plymouth, while Madison and Ontario renew their intense rivalry in the nightcap.

The other teams will draw byes until Thursday, Feb. 24, when the tournament will be resumed with four games. Consolation games are scheduled the next night at Lexington, with the championship semi-finals and finals billed the following day at Mansfield high.

Five of the tournament teams not scheduled in the first round will play Friday night. Bellville plays at Butler and Lucas performs at Union in county league games, and Shiloh goes to Greenwich for a Twin-Valley league tilt.

The records of the tournament teams to date follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ontario	12	1	.923
Shiloh	11	1	.917
Butler	10	2	.833
Madison	7	5	.583

Drub Ashland To Tie Marion

Jackets, Led by Lore, Win by 49 to 26 Score.

MT. VERNON—The crack Mt. Vernon high quintet hopped into a tie with Marion Harding for the top spot in the North Central Ohio conference race here last night by drubbing Ashland, 49 to 26.

The Yellow Jackets, led by their sharpshooting guard, Eddie Lore, got off to a whirlwind start and at halftime were leading, 25 to 9. Lore, league leading individual scorer dropped in 17 points to increase his total for the season to 110. Snook got five points to top the invaders.

EX-INDIAN GETS BREAK

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—As added insurance that their keystone sack will be well-covered, the world champion New York Yankees today acquired Shortstop Bill Knickerbocker in a trade that sent utility infielder Don Heffner and cash to the St. Louis Browns.

Although it was indicated that Knickerbocker would replace Heffner as a utility man, it was believed he might get the regular second base job should Rookie Joe Gordon, up from Newark, fail to live up to expectations. There also is a chance that he will get the shortstop call should Frank Crosetti, who hit only .235 last year, remain in a batting slump.

Knickerbocker is 27 and played with the Cleveland Indians for four years before going to the Browns. He batted only .261 in 121 games last year, and suffered a big cut in salary in his 1938 contract, which he refused to sign. Brown officials had given him permission to make a deal for himself, but the Yankee office said Knickerbocker personally had nothing to do with the trade.

Heffner is the same age as Knickerbocker, and is one of the surest infielders in baseball. His weakness at bat kept him out of the Yankee regular lineup. He got a big chance last year when Crosetti was injured, but he hit only .249 in 60 games.

Needs 138 Points To Reach 1,000 Mark.

WOOSTER—Can Nick Frascella, Wooster's scoring ace, who has rolled up 271 points in eleven games, score 138 points in the seven games left on the Scots' schedule?

Frascella has now scored 862 points in intercollegiate competition. If Frascella can average 20 points per game the remaining games of this season, he will then have 1,000 points for three seasons of college basketball.

"Old Silvernails" Tavern

NO tavern in all New York City could be more fittingly named after the first Governor of the State of New York than the "Old Silvernails" Tavern in the Hotel Governor Clinton. The early settling of Manhattan gives many interesting sidelights of the men of that period, particularly the stories told of that most romantic and colorful figure, "Old Silvernails", and so named because of the silver nails driven into his wooden leg.

In 1609, a staunch little boat seeking a westward passage to India, came up what is now the Bay of New York and dropped anchor. It was commanded by Hendrik Hudson, the discoverer of the historic river that today bears his name. Hudson explored the region thoroughly and took back to Holland tals of rich commercial possibilities. The Dutch bought the Island, settled it—and the history of "Nieuw Amsterdam" began.

The Dutch were destined not to remain long in power; ultimately they had to give way to the English. But this period while it did last was the most blissful in the entire history of Manhattan. Life moved at a leisurely pace. Dotting the lower part of the Island were great farms and spacious houses. It was a paradise of plenty, with Nature providing fish, game and other necessities in abundance.

But most interesting of all were the men of that period. There was "Walter the Doubter," the second governor of the Colony, who, as one biographer remarks, had doubts about everything "except the value of good food." His successor was "Wilhelm the Testy", a small, busy man who, it is said, worked so hard during his lifetime that at his death there was "scarcely anything left to bury."

The last and most famous of the Dutch governors was Peter Stuyvesant, called by some "Peter the Headstrong", by other, "Old Silvernails." He was an autocrat who detested popular government and did his utmost to undo everything the former governor had accomplished. Yet Washington Irving, in spite of his love for satire, could find little about 'Old Silvernails" to satirize. Secretly, he could not help but admire the resourcefulness and determination of this doughty old depot.

Fittingly enough, it is the name of this picturesque old warrior that the Hotel Governor Clinton Tavern now bears. The architecture is Dutch Colonial, the walls, ceiling, beams and woodtrim being of knotted pine throughout, and covered with some thirty or more murals depicting the various scenes of those early days. The circular, twenty-light fixtue in the centre futher contributes to the quiet charm of this delightful luncheon place. Old fashioned settle seats against the walls give the extreme of Dutch quaintness to the whole picture, while the open bar and counter along one side and a large, open fireplace on the other side, completes the ensemble of coziness and gustatory peace. No one "grabs" a lunch here,—they linger.

—A Woman from Philadelphia, Po.

(From "Over the Coffee Cups," the house organ of the Hotel Governor Clinton.)

STOCK PRICES FALTER AFTER FEEBLE SPURT

Fractional Gains Shaved or Transformed Into Losses After Second Hour.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks found the recovery road hard going today and slipped back after a feeble spurt at the start.

Toward the second hour many fractional gains had been shaved or transformed into losses. Activity dwindled on the downturn.

Wall Street avidly discussed President Roosevelt's statement he believed commodity prices too low, some observers accepting it, as they did suspension of gold sterilization, as mildly inflationary.

Commodity prices were mixed and narrow, although copper futures picked up on speculative buying. Bonds were irregular in a limited range. European currencies advanced against the dollar.

Followers of the steel shares noted with interest the assertion of "Iron Age" that, with an announcement of second quarter prices due shortly, there was no indication they would be revised downward.

The publication found there were signs of a slight seasonal betterment in the industry, including a moderate gain in automobile assemblies.

Electric power production again dipped for the week ended Feb. 12, the Edison Electric institute reported, dropping 6 7 per cent under the comparable 1937 period. Gasoline supplies on hand touched a new all-time high.

LABOR TO HOLD SECURITY ACT FORUM TONIGHT

Three Speakers Will Outline Obligations, Privileges of Workers Under Law.

Purposes and benefits of the Social Security act will be outlined by three speakers at a public forum at the Bowman street school tonight.

The forum, sponsored by organized labor in Mansfield with the co-operation of R. G. Mish, manager of the Mansfield district office of the Social Security board, will "explain to workers just what their obligations and privileges are under the Social Security act," Mish said.

Discuss U. S., State Programs.

Speakers representing the Social Security board at the forum will be E. A. Hester, Cleveland, assistant regional representative of the old age insurance board, whose topic will be, "What Social Security Means to the Worker;" E. L. Keenan, regional unemployment compensation representative, will speak on "The Federal-State Program of Unemployment Compensation," while "The Ohio Unemployment Plan" will be outlined by Orland Biehn, Columbus, field representative of the Ohio Unemployment Compensation commission.

Mish said the discussion will include methods of filing claims, information as to account numbers, and other pertinent facts pretaining to the Social Security act.

Following the addresses, a question period will be conducted by Mish.

The committee sponsoring the forum is headed by W. E. Watkins, president of the Mansfield Trades council who will preside as chairman. Other committee members are Lloyd Leaman, secretary of the Trades council; George Schneider, trustee of the council, and Clarence Fike, delegate of the engineer's organization.

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL

NO. 20

Deduction for Taxes.

Taxes on real estate and personal property paid during the year 1937 are deductible. So-called taxes, which are assessed against local benefits, such as streets, sidewalks, drainage, and other like improvements, are not deductible but are to be capitalized, as they tend to increase the value of the property and thus constitute cost of a permanent improvement. The federal income tax may not be deducted. The tax on unjust enrichment—a federal tax on income—is not deductible. Income tax, however, paid to the state by an individual on his income is an allowable deduction in his federal income-tax return.

Customs duties paid by a person on articles imported for his own use are deductible. Import or tariff duties paid to customs officers; and business, license, privilege, excise, and stamp taxes paid to internal-revenue collectors are deductible as taxes provided they are not added to and made a part of the expenses of the business or the cost of the articles of merchanise with respect to which they are paid, in which case they cannot be deducted separately as a tax. Federal taxes on admissions in excess of 40 cents are deductible, but the taxpayer must show that account has been kept of the amount paid. Taxes on club dues are deductible by the member paying them. An individual may deduct the tax on his telephone conversations, radio messages, telegrams, and cables, and on the rent of his safe-deposit box.

Unemployment compensation contributions if officially classified as taxes are deductible as taxes and not as business expenses.

The income tax imposed upon employees by section 801 of the Social Security Act may not be deducted by the employes. But the excise taxes imposed upon employers by sections 804 and 901 of the Social Security Act may be deducted by the employers. Also, if an employer pays the income tax on employees under section 801, the amount may be deducted by the employer as an ordinary and necessary business expense and the employees are required to report as additional income in their federal income-tax returns the amounts of the tax so paid for them.

License fees exacted by a state or city upon certain businesses are deductible as taxes. Automobile license fees are ordinarily taxes and deductible. Postage is not a tax and is not deductible. In general, taxes are deductible only by the person upon whom they are imposed.

Federal estate and gift taxes and state inheritance, estate, legacy, or succession taxes are not deductible on federal income-tax returns. The federal taxes on automobiles, gasoline, cigarettes, and liquor are imposed upon the manufacturer, producer, or importer, and are not deductible by the purchaser or consumer. Whether or not the gasoline tax or the sales tax levied by a state may be deducted by the individual purchaser depends upon the terms of the state law imposing the tax; consequently, the right to the deduction, as between purchaser and seller, varies in the different states.

Under the Revenue Act of 1936 the amount of excess-profits tax paid or accrued under the Revenue Act of 1935 (as amended) is deductible in computing net income of a corporation for the purpose of both the normal tax and the surtax on undistributed profits.

ASKS RAILROAD FOR STONE TO REPAIR ROADS

Sword Takes First Step In Move to Get County Rural Sections 'Out of Mud.'

As the first step in getting Richland county's rural section "out of the mud," County Engineer Howard C Sword today sought a contract with the Erie railroad for a quantity of stone ballast to be used as a base for re-building a number of the county roads.

Sword was in Marion negotiating with division officials of the Erie for the purchase of the greater part of the ballast left by the re-location of nearly a mile of track at Pavonia.

The ballast, made up of a mixture of stone and cinders, makes an ideal road building material, county commissioners said, and is already being used by the Weller township trustees for road repairs.

Start Rebuilding.

Aided by colder weather, county road maintenance crews had started today to rebuild the roads which have been damaged most by weather conditions in the past month.

A number of the secondary routes were impassable until the earth settled enough to permit the use of maintainers on the roads. Damage to roads in all sections of the county has been described by Sword as the "most extensive in years."

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of county commissioners estimated today it will cost at least $10,000 "just to fill up the mud holes in the roads."

He based his estimates on the last year's figures which showed that 60 cars—a trainload of limestone—was used in the spring to repair the county's roads.

"And we'll need more than that this year," Mitchell added.

While he declined to estimate total damage to the road system by the late winter thaws, he predicted that "it will take more than we've got to put the roads back in shape."

HELD TO JURY

Mansfielder Accused of Stabbing Account Collector.

Pleading innocent to a charge of cutting with intent to wound when arraigned in municipal court today John Campbell, 48, colored, 875 North Bowman street, was bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond.

Unable to furnish bond he was returned to the county jail where he has been held since he was returned here from Chicago by deputy sheriffs Sunday night.

Campbell testified that he hopped a freight train out of town shortly after an altercation with George Miller, a collector for the Moskin Credit Clothing company, when Miller attempted to collect on account owed by Campbell.

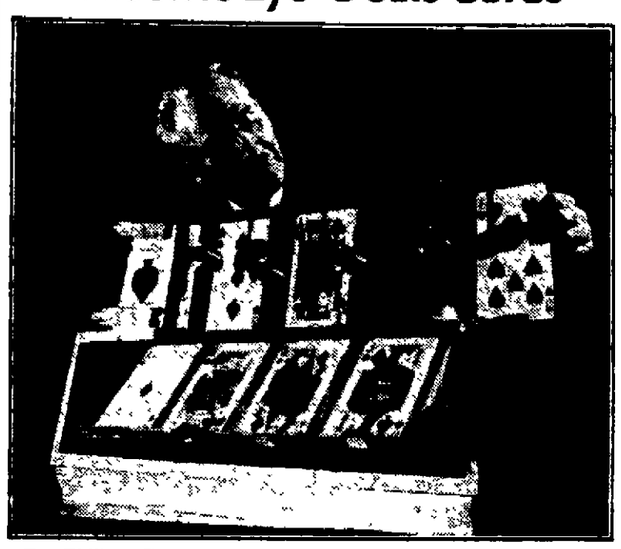
The accused man pleaded self defense, asserting he struck Miller with a club during an argument last July. He said he had no knift.

100 IN TOURNEY

More than 100 players participated in the opening matches of the inter-park card tournament at Johns park last night. Bridge, euchre and pinochle were played.

The tournament, which will continue at North Lake park Tuesday, is being conducted by a committee consisting of Ed Wiley, Johns park; William Spriggins, North Lake park; Carl Gabor, Prospect park, and George Marshall, Liberty park.

'Electric Eye' Deals Cards



Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, is shown operating the "electric eye" which can deal a deck of playing cards into suits. The apparatus will be shown by Dr. Thomas this evening when he lectures in Mansfield Senior high school auditorium on the latest developments in electricity. The lecture, sponsored by the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, will be open to the public.

ENGINEER PUTS ELECTRIC AGE MARVELS ON DISPLAY TONIGHT

Developments in electrical laboratories designed to make living safer and easier will be described and illustrated by Dr. Phillips Thomas, Westinghouse research engineer, in a lecture at 8 p. m. today in Mansfield Senior high school auditorium

Dr. Thomas, who comes to Mansfield from East Pittsburgh to demonstrate the marvels of electricity, will bring a miniature laboratory with him His lecture will be free to the public.

Among the recent developments he will demonstrate are the electrostatic air cleaner; polarized light, or a new method of eliminating the glare from auto headlights; the "atom-smasher;" electric card sorter, and the Sterilamp, which kills germs with ultra-violet rays.

A native of Granville, O., Dr. Thomas has been with the Westinghouse organization since 1912. He has developed a number of electrical devices used in the company's products and invented the ultra-audible microphone, one of the early effective types of radio broadcasting microphones.

HEADS LAYMEN

C. K. Smaltz Leads Richland County Methodist Group.

C. K Smaltz was elected president of the Richland County Methodist Laymen's association last night, replacing Sidney L. Palmer who has held that seat for 14 years and who retired this month.

Lewis Rinehart, of the Ontario Methodist church, was elected secretary-treasurer, filling the office left vacant by the death of Roe H. Oswalt last year.

The dinner meeting, held at Central Methodist church, was attended by 128 men. W. C. Mansfield was toastmaster. A male chorus of 28 voices from the Pavonia church furnished the musical entertainment .and Smaltz led the community singing. Rev. D. B. Millar, Richland county's oldest minister, led the devotions.

Speakers were Carl P. Meister, of the Elyria Home for the Aged, and Rev. H. W. Peterson, district superintendent.

AUSTRIA BOWS TO NAZI PLANS

Schuschnigg Frees Political Prisoners, Muzzles Press In Sweeping Decrees.

reichstag, came while Nazis celebrated joyously what they regarded as an outstanding victory in the reorganization of the Austrian government.

Hitler's speech was the only item on the reichstag's program for its special meeting, and the Austrian reorganization was expected to loom large in the speech.

Nazis believed their fellow Nazis in Austria had driven approximately the same sort of wedge into the Austrian cabinet that German Nazis drove into the German cabinet a little over four years ago.

It was believed here that the reorganization of the cabinet in Vienna, with the inclusion of a Nazi as minister of interior, and an all-embracing political amnesty, were but the first steps to be taken under a new program of Austrian-German co-operation.

(Co-operation in the field of foreign affairs and the possible inclusion of Austria in the German-Japanese-Italian "anti-communist" pact were mentioned as possibilities.)

The events in Vienna were dramatic enough in themselves. But there remained to be made public exactly what led to them. Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and his associates had resisted Nazi infiltration for years. Then suddenly they admitted the Nazis to key posts and it was indicated that relations of the closest sort were in prospect.

HEARING SET

Two Face Court Tomorrow On Alleged Code Violations.

Two members of the Ohio Brokerage company, 111 North Main street will appear before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court tomorrow on charges of violating the state second hand dealers' code.

Sadie and David Ellison, were arrested last night after affidavits filed in municipal court by Detectives Harry Copper and E. C. Fuller charged them with violation of the code.

They were released on $500 bonds furnished by Irvin H Munster manager of the Big Three Malt company, court records showed.

tions continued throughout the county schools with the assistance of Dr. Finley Van Orsall, chief of the communicable disease division of the state health department, and Dr. P. L. Harris, also of the state health department.

Dr. Rehder and Dr. Paul Baird, assistant health commissioner, moved back into the city schools today to make examinations for successful inoculations.

At Shelby, Dr. B. H. Moffat, city health commissioner said approximately 625 students of the city schools had been immunized at the clinics conducted at the schools in the past week.

While no cases have been reported in Shelby, Dr. Moffat urged all persons to submit to a vaccination because of the number of cases of smallpox in the county.

CAUGHT IN WILD CHASE

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Enjoy Out of Bed the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sunk, sour and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

TELLS WORLD BOTH COASTS TO BE ARMED

President Says Nation's Sea Forces to Be Expanded to Meet All Aggressors.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt served notice on the world today that the United States will build a navy big enough for defense against any combination of aggressors.

The American navy, the president declared, must be able, if war comes, to fight off simultaneous attacks on both the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

The president's pronouncement of a "two-power" navy was interpreted as committing the administration to a determined policy of warship construction on such a vast scale that the American navy will not only maintain its 5-5-3 ratio of superiority with Japan, but at the same time will be able to cope with a possible alliance of aggressor powers.

So long as other major world powers continue to build more formidable fleets in excess of the London and Washington armament limitation agreements, it was clear, the United States intends doing likewise as a purely defensive measure.

America's rearmament probably will not stop with the pending $800,000,000 program to increase the navy's strength by 20 per cent in all categories, military and naval experts predicted. This will depend wholly, they pointed out, on whether by the time the program is completed other world powers will have found their rearmament programs so burdensome that they will have to call a halt.

Guard Insufficient.

The president made pointed reference to the advice of his military and naval advisers that this country cannot depend upon defending a single coastline in the event of war.

Back of this, International News Service learned, is the fear of this country's highest military strategists that if the United States is ever attacked it will not be by one power alone but by two or more striking at both sides of the continent simultaneously.

At present, and for several years past the fleet has been stationed in the Pacific.

A. F. of L. Rejects Stalin's Plea For Aid In Case of War

NEW YORK—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor has rejected the appeal of Josef Stalin, Soviet Russia's leader, for organized labor throughout the world to support Russia in event of war, Matthew Woll, A. F. of L. vice president, said today.

"The Soviet regime deserves no more support from organized labor in democratic countries than do the governments of Hitler and Mussolini," said Woll.

"Speaking for the nearly 4,000,000 American workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, I am authorized to say that American workers will not permit themselves to become embroiled in war to help save Stalin's dictatorship," he continued.

Woll has been selected by the A. F. of L. executive committee to represent the A. F. of L. at Oslo, Norway, in May at the meeting of the International Federation of Trade Unions. He said he had been instructed by the committee to "unalterably oppose" there a proposal to admit the trade unions of Russia into the I. F. T. U. He said the A. F. of L. would withdraw from the I. F. T. U. if the proposal is adopted.

SPORTSMEN TO HEAR EDITOR

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong.

The Reason Why

Different from Others

BECAUSE:—

Father John's Medicine is not "just another cold remedy". It not only helps break up colds, but builds up the body.

It's healthful, nourishing elements aid in maintaining strength, vigor and vitality.

Its value as a proven treatment for colds is supported by certified medical tests.

Its Record of 83 years is Convincing Proof of its Merit and Value.

PROBERS PUSH HOT MIX QUIZ

Dig Into Identical Bids on State Jobs, Payment of Fees by Contractors.

Franklin county were due to a war between contractors," Metzenbaum said. "How could the war have affected the price if there was only one bidder?"

Niple testified that in some cases where the state paid a higher price than the villages, the road material came from the same place.

Concerning fees, Harry Burns, secretary of the firm of Robinson, Burns & Cooper, told the committee yesterday that he paid "commissions" of $1,347.78 to C. E. Wild, former Ravenna highway division engineer on two "hot mix" road projects which his firm contracted for in 1936 and 1937.

Burns also testified that he paid $993.86 to the Hot Mix Bituminous Industry of Ohio, Inc., of which his firm was a member, on the same projects.

For 'Professional Services.'

The payment to Wild was for "professional services," Burns testified. He said he did not know what services actually had been performed by Wild for his firm.

The payments mentioned by Burns were on two Hancock county road projects, he testified. At the time the payments were made, according to Burns, Wild and C. W. Simpson, secretary of the association, occupied the same office here.

The committee also heard evidence that:

1. There was no competition on 19 "hot mix" road projects awarded by the state highway department and costing $320,000.

2. There was "collusive" bidding on some of the 44 "hot mix" projects constructed in 1937.

3. In some cases, highway contractors who were members of the association bid only a few dollars under the highway department's estimated price on a project. In some cases they bid the exact estimates.

4. There was no real competition between bidders on any of this type of work during 1936 and 1937.

5. A "little black book" was kept in the highway department in which bidders on state projects were required to register before they could secure bidding blanks.

6. The regulation requiring bidders to register in the book was repealed by highway officials shortly after the senate graft investigation opened.

Terming the Hot Mix association "an iniquitous institution and combination in restraint of trade to mulct the state of Ohio out of millions of dollars," James Metzenbaum, attorney for the investigators, produced a series of "bulletins" issued by Simpson to his members during the past three years.

The bulletins, Metzenbaum pointed out, listed successful bidders on state road projects weeks before the bids were opened by highway officials.

A bulletin on Sept. 30, 1937, contained the message that "the officials of the highway department feel that some answer must be made to accusations of a newspaperman in which he shows that Franklin county built hot mix roads for one half the price the state paid," Metzenbaum said.

"How do you justify the fact that the state paid twice as much for roads as the county?" he asked the witness.

Blames It On Enmity.

Simpson replied that there was some "enmity" between two contractors bidding upon Franklin county projects and that each was determined the other would not get any business.

"Well, if I show you that there were more than two bidders on county projects, and that each bid was below the price the state paid, will you still be able to explain why members of your association were taking twice as much for state work?" Metzenbaum asked.

"There is no answer to this, except to say that it was due to a war between contractors," the witness replied.

Metzenbaum read from highway department records, showing that on June 8, eight state contracts were awarded to members of the association and that there was only one bid on each of these projects.

"Doesn't it seem singular to you that on each one of those lettings—held after a meeting at your office the night before—that there was only one bid?" Metzenbaum asked.

"It doesn't to me. But I can see where you might think it singular," Simpson replied.

"How does it come that time after time, members of your association hit the nail right on the head and got the state contract for exactly the same amount of the estimate?" Metzenbaum said.

The witness replied that he didn't know.

Simpson told the committee that his association has 36 members which includes all but two Ohio contractors equipped to do hot mix work.

He said the two exceptions were the Horvitz company of Cleveland, which now has a $200,000 contract with the state highway department for a hot mix resurfacing job on the Cleveland-Buffalo road in Lake county, and the H. B. Fenton company of Cleveland.

All members of the association, he said, paid an assessment of 10 cents per cubic yard of hot mix used on a job to the association.

MANSFIELD FIRM LISTED

The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, of which Carl Stander, one-time county Democratic executive committee chairman and former mayor is president, was listed in testimony before the senate investigating committee yesterday as one of 36 Ohio contracting firms belonging to the Hot Mix Bituminous Paving Industry, Inc., whose activities are now under investigation, dispatches to The News-Journal from Columbus said.

President, Chief Naval Aid Can't Agree on Extent of U. S. Coast Protection.

purposes of national security," and added:

"We cannot assume that our defense would be limited to one ocean and one coast and that the other ocean and other coast would with certainty be safe. Adequate defense affects therefore the simultaneous defense of every part of the United States."

Chairman Carl Vinson of the house committee has written into the new naval bill a declaration of policy along those lines—that the United States will maintain a navy to protect "the coastline in both oceans at the same time; to protect the Panama canal, Hawaii and our insular possessions."

The foregoing constitute a formal declaration of American policy which the record indicates Admiral Leahy does not believe the navy is large enough to maintain. Furthermore, the navy is not physically disposed to protect both coasts simultaneously. Since March 22, 1932, the United States fleet has been stationed in the Pacific. Prior to that time the ships of the scouting force had been stationed in the Atlantic and the battle force in Pacific waters. The fleet was combined after Japan invaded Manchuria.

In a test on April 24-25, 1934, the entire fleet was moved through the Panama canal as a unit. The movement took 47 hours compared with the weeks required by Capt. C. E. Clark to round the Horn in the battleship Oregon in the pre-canal days of the Spanish-American war. But there is substantial naval opinion back of the belief that the Panama canal may not be open when America next goes to war.

Before Admiral William H. Standley retired as chief of naval operations he made the statement that the first knowledge the United States would have of hostile action probably would not, in the future, be a declaration of war. More likely, he said, it would be a dispatch from Panama that a tramp freighter had exploded in Gatun locks, perhaps blocking the canal pending major repairs. One coast would have the fleet and protection. The other coast would be vulnerable.

Some persons argue, therefore, that circumstances might arise in which the British fleet would patrol, police or fight in the Atlantic while the American fleet was patrolling, policing or fighting in the Pacific. They suggest directly or by implication that there exists an understanding of some kind between London and Washington that the end. They bolster their contention by assuming that Great Britain's fleet is so engaged by consequences of Italian and German political expansion that the two great oceans almost automatically would be assigned in time of emergency to the fleets of the two great English speaking peoples—the Pacific to Americans and the Atlantic to Britons. The theory is that Great Britain would not send her fleet to Pacific waters because of conditions prevailing in Europe whereas the United States might not be able to put naval power in the Atlantic because of Far Eastern conditions.

INCREASED SPEED CUTS DRIVER'S MARGIN OF SAFETY, CLUB TOLD

"Wider Margins of Safety," was the subject of a talk given today before the Optimist club by Lincoln H. Lippincott, of Chicago, national secretary of the "Not Over 50 Club." He also addressed Rotarians yesterday at their luncheon meeting.

Lippincott, who was a professor at Johns Hopkins university for a number of years and is now a member of the faculty of Northwestern university, is seeking to extend membership of the "Not Over 50" club, which has as its objective the reduced traffic hazards that are found in not driving over 50 miles an hour. The club has over 200 members in Mansfield.

"Greater security is a normal human impulse," Lippincott said. "The fact that four out of every five auto accidents occur in clear weather on dry roads supports the general observation that most drivers use greater care in bad weather. When hazards are clearly seen, greater caution is exercised. Drivers seek wider margins of safety when they they know that a definite danger exists.

"People are killed by errors of feet and inches, and not by miles per hour. These deficiencies of sight, reaction and manual skill become magnified as the speed increases. Approximately 40 per cent of the total national auto fatalities are pedestrians. In 1937 approximately 16,000 pedestrians were killed by autos. In most cases the pedestrian did not have a chance. If the driver had been making less than 50 miles per hour, there would have been a greater margin of safety for them."

Lippincott belied the claim that speed is necessary in order to keep appointments, and said that it has been demonstrated that for any distance of a 100 miles or more, a speed of 50 miles per hour will enable the motorist to arrive sooner than the one who drives in excess of that.

At the conclusion of his talk Lippincott issued an invitation to Optimists to join the "Not Over 50 Club," which requires no fee and no obligation except a pledge of honor not to drive in excess of 50 miles an hour.

His appearance before luncheon clubs was sponsored by the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company as a part of their program for safer and saner driving. Albert Doelling, program chairman, introduced the speaker this noon.

At yesterday's Rotary meeting, Mayor Claude M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert, Police Officers Fred Boals and Clare Kyler, and Boy Scouts who acted as city officials yesterday, were guests of the club.

A Farmer's Diary

Feb. 15.

TODAY we experienced that damp gray coldness that even the warmest clothing could "not quite shut out." The sticky mud that lay in open fields had changed to a hard, brown, flinty covering. The pasture's dash of green had almost returned to its somber winter appearance. I walked in my neighbor's wheat field and saw the ground heaved up between the rows of wheat. I sensed the struggle these rootlets were having against the stronger power of frost.

The field had numerous cobblestones, smooth and round like eggs. Some were of foreign lineage and others of native rock or dark blue clay that hardened in the sun. Each day by force of wind and rain, heat and frost, the stones have changed—the outer layer sloughed off, and new rich earth has formed. The various materials in the rocks have different expanding units and thus heat and cold of any day or night may cause the very heart to crash and become, in time, a little heap of what seems common earth.

But no! It is very uncommon. Here lies the wealth of the soil, the rejuvenation of the fields each spring. This little cobblestone proves its worth when it pours its vital elements to mingle with the clay. It becomes part of every greenest blade of grass, each stalk of wheat that stands above its fellows, each flower that grows a hardier stem and boasts a more beautiful bloom. From a mass of vital elements what we see as a common stone, has crumbled and changed, and climbed "to a soul in grass and flowers." —By C. A. B.

CARS RUN AGAIN

Twin Cities Transportation Strike Ends After Night and Day.

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP)— Residents in the Twin Cities rode to work today as the rumble of street cars heralded the end of a walkout that paralyzed transportation for a night and a day.

The walkout started Monday morning when employes at one station refused to operate cars in protest against the use of one-man cars. It ended shortly before midnight last night when workers voted to accept a settlement offered by the company.

KILL 2ND MOVE TO END LYNCH BILL ORATORY

Barkley Indicates Battle on Controversy to End With Shelving of Measure.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The senate today defeated a second attempt to break the anti-lynching bill filibuster by limitation of debate.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., said the long battle over the measure might be expected to end—presumably in shelving the legislation—early next week.

By defeating the new effort to invoke the senate's cloture rule and thus end the filibuster, foes of the anti-lynching bill virtually ended hope for a vote on the measure at this session.

The first cloture attempt, made in January, lost when only 37 votes were cast for cloture and 51 against it. A two-thirds vote is required to invoke the rule.

Decision Due Monday.

Barkley, confronted with a log-jam of appropriation bills, said he expected a final decision on the anti-lynching bill about Monday, with sidetracking the only likely outcome.

Filibuster leaders said failure of the second effort to invoke cloture was "the end" of the anti-lynching bill for this session and, predicted there would be tremendous obstacles to raising the issue again for many years.

It was believed the bill would be sidetracked when the $250,000,000 deficiency relief measure is ready, probably on Monday.

At that time, a vote probably will be taken on calling up the deficiency bill, which would lay aside the anti-lynching measure after six weeks of filibustering debate. General opinion in the senate was that the vote would favor taking up the relief legislation.

DINNER ENDS MEMBER DRIVE

60 Attend 'Victory' Feast For Junior Association of Commerce Group.

The Mansfield Junior Association of Commerce celebrated a successful membership campaign last night with a "victory" dinner at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company cafeteria. Sixty members attended.

Gene Earick, chairman of the membership committee and secretary of the association, won the award for enlisting the most new members. He had signed up 12 in a group of 45. The award will be made at a later meeting of the association.

Speaking at the dinner meeting, D. O. Meese, Mansfield insurance man, urged the Junior Association members to "be civic leaders and stand on your own feet."

He warned against being too easily influenced by adverse opinion and sentiment in carrying out a program for civic betterment.

Judge C. H. Huston, president, and Paul Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, were guests at the meeting which was in charge of Earick.

COASTS TO JAIL

Pleads Guilty to Driving Car Without Owner's Consent.

An East Second street colored man who "coasted" into jail, pleaded guilty when arraigned in municipal court yesterday on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,500 bond.

He was Arthur Jordon, rear of 344 East Second street, arrested at his home Monday by Detective Oscar Krupp after he had abandoned a car owned by H. L. Harbaugh, 4 North Willis avenue, less than two blocks from the house when it failed to start.

Police said the man fled when an employe of the Shelley Smith garage questioned him concerning the ownership of the machine which he was attempting to start.

Questioned at headquarters, Jordon admitted taking the car, police said, quoting him as saying he was "just coasting."

JUDGE UPHELD, BUT ALL IN VAIN

Attorney General Says He Can Send Girl to Institution, But Girl's Gone Now.

County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott, the attorney general said, in part: "I know no power which is possessed by the superintendent of an industrial school to refuse admittance in this case. I am not of the opinion that merely because the hearing was held before the child was 18, and she became 18 before sentence, that the court has lost jurisdiction."

The colored girl had pleaded guilty to assaulting Mrs. Jerome Hecht last Jan. 10 at the county relief office on Orange street. She was 17 years old at the time, but reached 18 before she was sentenced on Jan. 26.

Confined for several days in the county detention home, the girl was sent to Pennsylvania, Judge Anderson said, to "get her out of the state" and because it was not known how long the attorney general would delay his opinion on the matter.

"The case is not definitely closed yet," Judge Anderson said, but he added that the girl probably would be left with her aunt for the entire year if she did not violate her probation.

PETIT JURORS GET A HOLIDAY

Won't Be Called Until Thursday as 2 Cases Are Settled, Jury Waived In Third.

With two of three damage suits set for trial this week in common pleas court settled and dismissed and the jury waived in the third, the county petit jury will not be summoned until Thursday morning, C. A. McKinley, court assignment clerk, said today.

A $50,000 damage suit brought against Lee A. Herring of Mansfield by Vartilee Dillon, Mansfield, who seeks damages for injuries allegedly suffered by her six-year-old daughter in a traffic accident more than two years ago, was heard in court yesterday.

Council in the case — Attys. Beam and Beam for the plaintiff and J. W. Galbraith for the defendant—waived a jury and submitted their testimony before Judge C. H. Huston.

Two cases scheduled for hearing Monday and Tuesday were settled out of court. In one, Ralph Irey of Greenwich sought $20,000 from Robert Gundrum, Mansfield, for injuries received in an automobile crash last September near Shelby.

In the second case, W. H. Gray, Mansfield, sued for $5,000 damages, naming J. P. Czernewski, also of Mansfield, defendant. Gray contended he suffered injuries when knocked down more than a year ago by the defendant's car.

Details of the settlements between the parties were not announced.

CITY, COUNTY WORKERS SEEK PENSION DATA

Employes Undecided If They Will Join In New State Retirement System.

Although it has been estimated that nearly 200 appointive employes in Mansfield and Richland county are eligible to participate in the public employes' retirement system, a number of them are undecided about joining in the plan, it was learned today.

The reason, it was pointed out, is that employes now in office are required to pay up their 4 per cent contributions over the period from Jan. 1, 1935, to June 30, 1938, in order to participate in the pension fund. In some cases, the back contributions will be as high as $250, it was estimated.

Bring Speaker Here.

At a meeting at the courthouse, about 40 county and city workers agreed to donate to a fund to bring W. E. Hoge, secretary of the state employes' retirement system, to Mansfield to explain the retirement set-up.

The plan, which is effective April 15 under a measure signed recently by Gov. Davey, provides for the retirement on a pension at 60 years of age of any county or municipal employe serving by appointment. Elective officials are not eligible to participate.

Participation in the retirement plan is not compulsory, but public works who do not file exemptions with the state within 90 days after April 15 automatically become members of the pension system.

Contributions of 4 per cent from their salaries will be withheld after July 1, with the maximum annual payments set at $80. Retirement at 60 is optional and compulsory at 70.

The amount of pensions payable under the plan is determined by the length of service and the salary of the participant.

SEAL LED WITH CARROT

NEWARK, Cal. —(U.P.)— The mystery of how to lure a seal back to the ocean when it has wandered a mile or so ashore was solved here when it was discovered that by tying a carrot to a stick and holding it in front of the seal's nose it would amble back at a satisfactory rate.

Moral: Never Try To Pass Highway Patrol This Way

It was "either stop or else" for Corporal Scott B. Radcliffe of the highway patrol as a youthful driver attempted to pass the patrol car on a narrow strip of road south of Bellville.

But the officer did both — he stopped, and then arrested the youth for careless and reckless driving.

It all happened when John F. Barnhardt, 18, of Akron, attempted to pass the patrol car as they approached a narrow bridge, Radcliffe related. "The car had been following me for more than a mile. He attempted to pass as we approached the bridge, and it was a case of hit the bridge or hit the ditch. I jammed on the brakes, and his car slid through."

Arraigned in municipal court yesterday Barnhardt pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Three students from Mansfield and nearby towns attending Ohio State university, have been named to the honor roll of the College of Arts and Sciences, word from the university said today. They are Margaret Farber of Mansfield, Robert Reiheld of Loudonville, and Robert Anderson of Mt. Vernon.

Twelve other students from Mansfield and vicinity have been named to committees and members of various groups on the campus. Paul Culler of Lucas, Robert and Richard Downs, and Harry Carter of Williamsport have been selected on the university's symphonic band.

Paul Bowen of Loudonville, and Hugh Hookway of Mt. Vernon were named to Pershing Rifles, military society; Emily J. Burns was named a member of a senior class committee; Janice Lavendar of Mansfield and June Gastmeau of Crestline, initiated into Delta Gamma sorority; Robert C. Amsbaugh of Mansfield, named to a committee to make arrangements for a peace demonstration in April; Robert McCormick, Mansfield, was chairman of a radio session that discussed "American's Town Meeting of the Air," sponsored by the Freshman Y. M. C. A. council, and Daniel L. Leedy, Butler, graduate students, discussed "The Pheasant Refuge System of Northwestern Ohio" at a meeting of the Wild Life Seminar.

"TOBACCO GROWERS KNOW"

I'VE GROWN OVER 87,000 POUNDS OF TOBACCO IN THE PAST FIVE YEARS. THE TOP GRADES OF MY LAST CROP WENT TO CAMEL AT BEST PRICES. THEY ALMOST ALWAYS DO. LIKE MOST PLANTERS, I SMOKE CAMELS. I KNOW THEY'RE MADE OF FINER TOBACCOS!

TOBACCO planters work hard to produce the choicest quality leaf. They know who buys their finer leaf, too. "Camel 'most always does," says Cecil White. And he, like most other planters, smokes Camels. As he says: "We know what tobacco's in 'em." Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

"WE SMOKE CAMELS BECAUSE WE KNOW TOBACCO" TOBACCO PLANTERS SAY

Working at the bottom of the sea is one job that can't be hurried. Fine brewing is another... From its slow-motion start to its leisurely finish, BUDWEISER'S brewing process demands time and patience. Choice barley must season for months. To make it into malt takes weeks. Finally, when the brew has been made, gentle fermentation just above the freezing point begins... and ends after more months have gone by. Time... time... more time. That's why your few minutes with a bottle of BUDWEISER are so brimful of satisfaction.

MAKE THIS TEST! DRINK Budweiser FOR FIVE DAYS. ON THE SIXTH DAY TRY TO DRINK A SWEET BEER • YOU WILL WANT Budweiser's FLAVOR THEREAFTER.

NOTE FOR HOUSEWIVES: A glass of cold BUDWEISER is always a thoughtful compliment to a husband—especially in the evening. Has he ever expected it when there was none in the icebox? Check up on your supply. Keep a carton on hand—and several bottles or cans of BUDWEISER chilled and ready for instant serving...at unexpected as well as regular occasions.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1938.

Some folks never seem to think about getting ahead—except when they're driving a car.

After dropping his last nickel in the slot a man is likely to think he is "a victim of the machine."

According to General Hugh Johnson, "The United States is in for a real boom when the time comes"—and that's something else to worry about.

Propose Peace Education.

A GROUP of high school teachers in one city wants peace education made a required part of the school curriculum. They suggest a one-year course in world history be added to the usual American history and civics.

Whatever of value there may be in history, as it is taught to school children, there has been obvious over-emphasis on war and the heroes of wars, rather than giving a fair share of attention to the constructive forces constantly at work in this and other countries.

A study of present conditions, and past history, indicates a great need for education of more people in the qualities that make for peace, rather than in the idealism of peace itself.

Wars do not just happen. They have deep-rooted causes in economics, racial fears, prejudices, national pride and the selfishness and ambition of rulers and classes. Some of these causes can be removed by co-operation of nations earnestly desiring to maintain peace. Some can be eliminated only by the slow process of changing ignorance and prejudice into enlightenment and goodwill.

Much of this work can, and should, be done in the schools of the United States and other countries, but the success of such courses would depend on the quality and spirit of the teaching.

It is essential that children—and adults—do not, at any time, lose sight of basic principles of patriotic Americanism by confusing the practical with the impractical in the movement toward eventual permanent world peace.

Children should be taught the FACTS of peace—and also the FACTS of war. In short, they should be taught to THINK STRAIGHT.

Considering the Railroad Dilemma.

FOR fifty years the federal government has been struggling with the national railroad problem. This, says Col. Leonard Ayres, business economist, is probably the year when the government "will finally undertake to find solution for their problems."

Rails seem to be heading into a crisis. Only a few lines are prosperous. On the whole they are not paying expenses. Much of their equipment is about worn out, their credit is low, they face ever-strengthening competition from automobiles, trucks, air and water transport. Yet they are still essential, and perhaps always will be.

Four possible plans are mentioned by Col. Ayres: government ownership; compulsory consolidation into a few great systems; reorganization of the weaker roads through streamlined bankruptcy proceedings, and pooling earnings so as to make prosperous roads support poorer ones.

This fourth plan, said Ayres, is the worst of all. It is anyone's guess, which of the other three will be adopted. The government seems to be shying away from immediate ownership, having too many other problems on its hands. Compulsory consolidation into regional systems may seem the best bet, with continuation of private ownership and Interstate Commerce commission control.

Solution of this problem is imperative. As Ayres points out, the railroads are one-fifth of our national industry. They buy 20 per cent of our coal, 20 per cent of our fuel oil, 20 per cent of our lumber and 20 per cent of our iron and steel. They are as vital to our national economy as agriculture.

Refuting a Tradition.

THE tradition that corporations, and especially public utilities, have no souls, isn't really true. The story of David Hill, a Michigan farmer 87 years old, refutes it.

Mr. Hill has been critically ill with pneumonia. His doctor said he might be saved by "short wave diathermy," which is medical jargon for electric heat applied internally. There were no electric wires within a mile and the patient couldn't be moved.

The doctor explained the situation to the manager of a power company at Grand Rapids. A line had been planned for installation next spring, but it would be hard to do the job in midwinter, with the ground frozen. No matter! The manager got a big crew on the job immediately. Tree-trimmers went ahead and cleared the way; more than 40 men planted poles and strung wire over the icy hills; and in eight hours the job was done. Power was turned on at the end of that day and the diathermy proceeded.

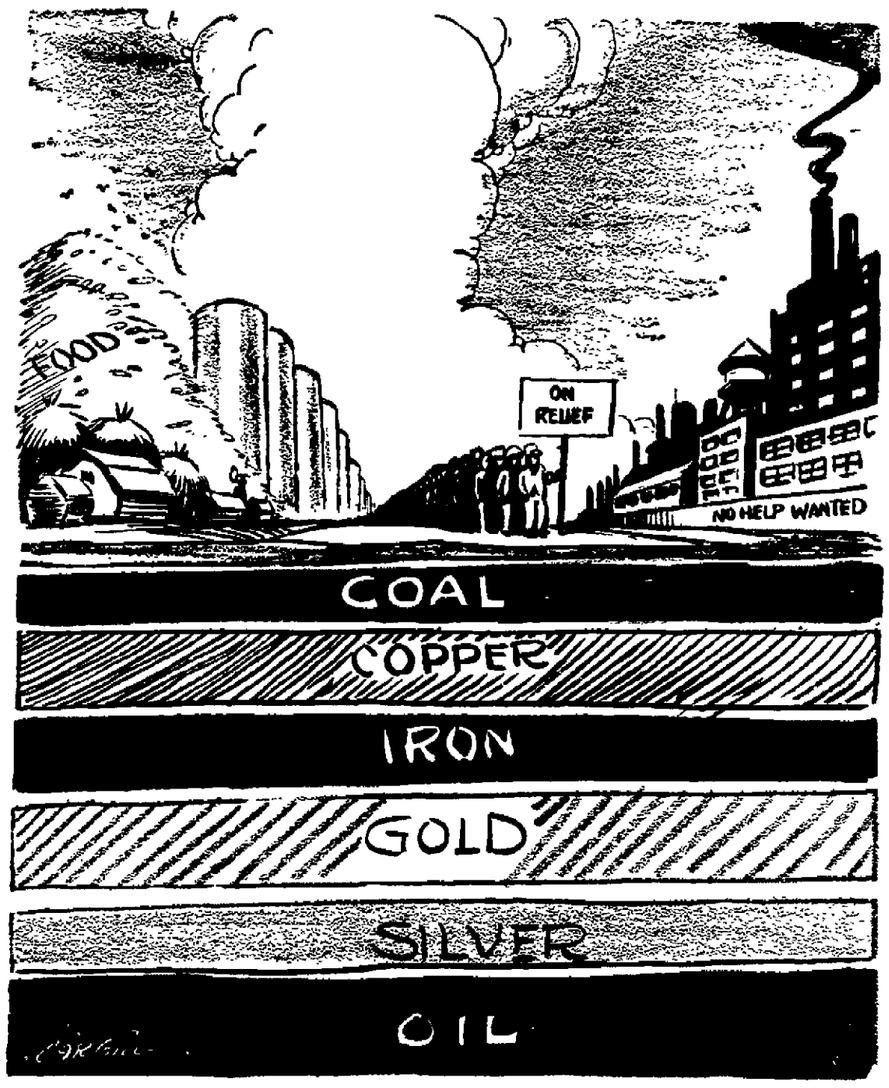
Exhibit Cave Man's Art.

SOME American art museums have been exhibiting a remarkable collection of prehistoric pictures gathered from caves in France, Germany, Italy, Scandinavia and northern Africa by Leo Frobenius. These facsimiles extend our knowledge of man and his arts perhaps 30,000 years farther into the past than information so far gained from other sources. Most of them seem to belong to the period of the last Ice Age.

The most wonderful thing, however, about these drawings, made on rock by the light of crude torches, is their artistic quality. Whether they were done for magical and ceremonial purposes, or for sheer enjoyment of artistic creation—and perhaps both were true—many of them show a vigor, truth and beauty that are amazing. They depict animals and birds of many kinds, some long extinct, still and in motion; human beings hunting and dancing; bows and arrows and spears used in the hunt; ceremonies of various kinds; landscapes with trees, streams, and so on.

The cave pictures are a fine substitute for both the degeneracies and novelties of our recent super-civilized art—the cubism, infantilism, surrealism and other idiocies and insanities from which our art galleries have been suffering.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE!



Borah Advises 'Little Business' To Organize

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Senator William E. Borah, who has quite a few good ideas, broadcast one the other day, when he advised "the little businessmen of America" to organize.

The "little businessmen's" recent conference in Washington demonstrated how badly that class of business needs organization, to get its rights.

It was a comedy conference, and no mistake.

Its funniness, however, was superficial. It was not funny because it had nothing worth while to say, but because it expressed what it did have to say incoherently.

* * *

STEWART'S VIEW

In the matter of intelligence there probably is no great difference between the averages of big and little businessmen.

The respective groupings are largely accidental.

Henry Ford, for example, was a very little businessman once. Yet in his little business days, he must have had at least as much native sense as he has now. Maybe more. True, he has had considerable experience since then, but he also has had time to lose touch with conditions which he formerly knew.

* * *

IN OUR HOME TOWNS—

In our old home towns all of us were acquainted with little businessmen whose judgment was just as sound as the judgment of any big businessman in the land. These folks simply had not happened to gravitate into the big business class—and haven't yet. But if they had happened to do so, unquestionably they would have performed creditably.

It is like saying:

Every American child is eligible to the presidency.

If he lands in the White House it may (or may not) prove that he is a natural-born bell-ringer. But, if he doesn't land there, that does not necessarily prove that he is a "dub."

* * *

LUCK AND CHANCE

Getting through the needle's eye not only calls for quality; it calls for all the favors of luck-and-chance.

Ditto the needle's eye of big business recognitionship

I will guarantee that there are plenty of little businessmen who are as big businessmen as the big ones, mental qualifications reckoned.

* * *

THOSE WHO ORGANIZE

But the big businessmen have dwindled to a small circle.

They are, as Senator Borah remarks, organized.

In Washington they consist notably of the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers.

These groups speak with a "punch."

Labor, also, speaks with a "punch."

They are organized, as Senator Borah points out; they have trained spokesmen—as have the women's organizations and others.

* * *

WOULD BE FORMIDABLE

But little business?

It just let out a ludicrous "squawk" and a "holler."

Big business hollers. Little business ineffectively squawks.

Organization is the touchstone, as Senator Borah emphasizes.

Little business hasn't got organized yet.

If it had, it would not yowl foolishly; it would be a formidable lobby in Washington.

Listen, World!

What's Your Price?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS BUSINESS OF "OUTSMARTING THE OTHER FELLOW"—

Getting by with a "slick bit of business"—

There's a temporary kick to it, maybe. You think you've made some Easy Money and are a Clever Number—yes? But have you ever thought of the other side of the picture? Have you ever considered the tag you hang on YOURSELF?

No, I'm not going to preach a sermon. But there's so much of this Smart Stuff . . . you meet it everywhere, with everyone. Remember the old time when "a man's word was as good as his bond?" That's a joke now . . . horse n' buggy ethics for "the folks from the sticks." Even decent people pride themselves today on "putting over a fast one"—until one stumbles over a line like this by Hester Cholmonely, which Chet Smith sent!

"Still, as of old, men by themselves are priced:
"For thirty pieces Judas SOLD HIMSELF, not Christ!"

For thirty pieces . . . I wonder how Judas would have felt if someone had put it up to him like that, beforehand? He was young, they say. Young and ambitious . . . envious, too, perhaps. Jealous of that other Young Man with his cheering thousands. Clawed by envy as he saw that Other riding through the palms . . . with the faces lifted in adoration and the voices, rolling, crashing, in wild waves of sound.

If he, Judas, could ride like that . . . be worshipped like that . . . have such power! Or even greater power . . . power among the wily priests and politicians . . . power, even, in Rome! If by some trick, —some subtle, secret trick—he, too, could ride in triumph, with the great!

Judas scheming. Going and coming with the rest of them, fooling them all while he schemed—planning and pretending. Telling himself that it was all right. Telling himself that if he didn't do it, someone else would. Saying he needed it . . . had a right to it . . . smiling, perhaps, at his careful cleverness . . . doing the thing which no one would ever suspect.

Then, at the last, everything in a rush. The feast . . . the cup . . . the kiss of death . . . the thirty pieces passed from hand to hand . . . His silver—his at last! The kiss — the coin — the swiftly coming power—he'd done it all—!

Then suddenly, as though a vulture swooped, the horror was upon him! HE'D SOLD HIS LORD! For what? For thirty silver pieces? No! For hate and heartbreak . . . and shame the endless hells could never scar away! . . . And so he went outside and hanged himself . . . and died.

Thirty pieces of silver — that's what he got. But what did he pay for them. Horror at dawn . . . Heartbreak and choking sobs . . . and then—a shamed Thing dangling from a cursed tree. I wonder how Judas would have felt if anyone had put it up to him like that —beforehand?

That "slick bit of business" . . . those "fast ones" we put over . . . the short-changing and the double-crossing that seems such a keen joke—and the Easy Money that's our goal these days—

Our sly, smart, modern "thirty pieces of silver"—

That's what we get.

BUT WHAT DO WE PAY FOR IT ALL?

That's what we put over on the Other Fellow—

BUT WHAT DO WE PUT OVER ON OURSELVES?

Timely Editorial

Conquest Without Peace.

Neutral observers continue to report that conditions of great disorder have developed behind the Japanese lines in China. Having driven out the regular Chinese administrative officials, the invaders appear to have been quite unable to manage ordinary problems of law enforcement in the conquered areas either around Nanking or in the north.

In the Tientsin district the Japanese are blaming their dilemma upon "Communist" agitators and "bandits." Presumably they mean they have not been able to subdue the area and that they are still encountering considerable resistance. In Central China there have been hints that the Japanese military command has evinced little interest in protecting the civilian population against criminals, including some among their own soldiers.

In any event the Japanese so far have signally failed to bring peace and contentment to their occupied territories on the mainland. Italy seems to have been equally unsuccessful in Ethiopia. And the whole pretense of these "civilizing" campaigns becomes daily more threadbare.—Kansas City Times.

Could Single Tax Be Solution?

—By LESLIE EICHEL

A YOUNG MAN of the Henry George School of Social Science, New York, stopped in our office the other day—and handed us the teachers' manual of the school. It is interesting, in that it simplifies all the Single Tax teachings of the master.

In these days of multiple taxes and complex governments, one longs for a single tax and a simple government, such as Henry George advocated. One cannot but wonder, however, whether the system is not too simple, whether the problems of a complex civilization can be brought into such an ideal and comforting conception. No true Single Taxer would wonder that, but one who writes a column on many subjects becomes a bit skeptical over even the most ideal suggestion.

Certain it is, however, that Henry George remains far above any political economist or prophet who has risen in America since his time — 60 years ago. His words ring as true today as then, his prophecies, the direst of them, are being fulfilled as if they were the surest fate.

* * *

READJUSTMENT

The teachers' manual is in itself a liberal education.

That is—if you have a mind open to this economic philosophy, which, as with all major economic philosophies, requires a social readjustment as well. The two never are separated; they are part and parcel.

But even if nothing is done, or especially if nothing is done, to counteract a depression or unbalanced national income (or unbalanced international income), the social readjustment comes anyway, much more violently, and in a much more costly manner.

* * *

SOME QUESTIONS

Now let us read a few questions and answers in the manual:

Q. "A period of speculation precedes every depression. This has given rise to two diametrically opposed explanations for depressions. What is the over-production theory?"

A. "Speculation has increased production beyond the demand for consumption, thus bringing on a depression."

Q. "What is the over-consumption theory?"

A. "Speculation has caused extravagance beyond the means of the people and the resulting depression is merely a period of retrenchment."

Q. "What is wrong with these explanations for industrial depression?"

A. "There cannot be over-production or over-consumption when people are in want and willing to exchange their labor for the labor of others."

Q. "What is the effect of speculation in the products of labor?"

A. "Speculation in the products of labor simply raises the price until production is stimulated, which tends to lower the price again."

Q. "Why is speculation in land different from speculation in the products of labor?"

A. "Land is a fixed quantity. Speculation in land cannot stimulate the production of more land, by raising the price."

Q. "Where does all production begin?"

A. "On the land. The primary and fundamental occupations, which create a demand for all others, are those which extract wealth from nature."

Q. "What, then, is the effect of the increase of rent through speculation in land?"

A. "The checking of production by a lock-out of labor and capital by land owners. This check to production, beginning at the basis of interlaced industry, propagates itself from exchange point to exchange point, cessation of supply becoming failure of demand, until unemployment is widespread."

Q. "Can there be industrial depression if labor and capital have ready access to land?"

A. "No. If present unemployed men and idle capital were producing wealth from land, they would be creating effective demand for articles and services produced everywhere."

Q. "Why does poverty persist in spite of increased productive power?"

A. "Every increase in productive power tends to increase rent and decrease wages."

* * *

ANSWERS

From that question on, Henry George (or his disciples in their streamlined questions and answers) begin driving at the fundamentals of the Single Tax philosophy: To make land common property (but not the improvements or personal property) by appropriating rent through taxation. Then to abolish all other taxation —the sole taxation to be on land values. Titles to land would not be confiscated: "It is only necessary to confiscate rent."

Here are a few other answers:

Q. "What is the cause of inequality in the distribution of wealth?"

A. "Inequality in the ownership of land."

Q. "Would economy in government, or reduced taxes, increase wages?"

A. "No. The owners of land would ultimately reap the whole benefit, as in the case of an increase of productive power."

Q. "Can skill, industry or thrift increase the general level of wages?"

A. "No. These qualities can increase the individual's wages only so long as they are above the average. As these qualities become widespread the tendency is to increase rent."

Q. "Can combinations of workmen increase the general level of wages?"

A. "No. Any advance in wages, above the normal rate, secured by a group must tend to be reduced to the normal by (1) reduction in demand for the products of that group, and (2) increase of laborers in that group."

EFFECT OF TAXES

Is it any wonder that the Single Taxer young man remarked that neither labor nor capital was rushing toward the Single Tax plan?

But capital appreciates what Henry George says concerning taxes on production—that they check production, lessen improvements, restrict opportunity and are costly to collect.

Health Advice

Public Must Help Cure Syphilis.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

MEDICAL SCIENCE has always waged war against syphilis. It has been one of the hidden wars of mankind. At present a definite campaign against venereal diseases is being carried on by the lay public, as well as by the medical profession. Let us hope this marks a definite step toward the ultimate eradication of this social disease.

Only recently the United States surgeon general published an article in which he stressed the fact that syphilis must be regarded as a national scourge. He urged the public necessity of ending it. The doctor pointed out that if proper publicity is given to the means of dealing with the disease it may disappear within a reasonable length of time.

Regarded As Shameful.

Heretofore there has been great reluctance about discussing this affliction of mankind. The disease has always been regarded as a shameful thing and its known victims have been avoided. Those who sought medical treatment did so in secret. If that attitude were to continue, the disappearance of the disease could never be expected.

Everyone should be familiar with its dangers and need of proper treatment. Medical advice should always be available. What is more important, it should be known by all that it can be cured.

The control and ultimate extermination of syphilis is the object of the campaign. To accomplish the end desired, it is necessary to have complete co-operation of the public and the medical profession.

Neglect of the disease means serious complications to the afflicted one. It means, too, the spread of the disease to others, unsuspecting and innocent persons. Quick recognition means complete cure for the victim and safety for others.

Consult Physician.

If a person fears he has this disease, he should consult with a physician immediately. Since the first effects of syphilis are often painless, or entirely absent, the disease may be overlooked. But if there is the slightest possibility of its presence, medical attention should be had at once.

The doctor is frequently asked whether it is possible to be cured of syphilis. The answer is yes. Early recognition and early treatment will meet with early success. Unfortunately, there may be relapses. Treatment must be continued for a considerable time in order to prevent such relapses.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Round Peg in Square Hole."

It is to a line by Sydney Smith, famous English preacher, humorist and philosopher of a century and more ago, that we are indebted, as the inspiration of this metaphor.

Lecturing at the Royal Institute, Sydney Smith said:

"If you choose to represent the various parts in life by holes upon a table, of different shapes—some circular, some triangular, some square, some oblong—and the persons acting these parts by bits of wood of similar shapes, we shall generally find that the triangular person has got into the square hole, the oblong into the triangular, and a square person has squeezed himself into the round hole."

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

—By O. O. McINTYRE

THE get-ups of Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken for the out-standing masquerade balls have made her the No. 1 figure of the photogravures and likewise the target of many sly twits from the pundits. Tall, statuesque, she takes all the off-side jeers in magnificent stride.

She does not bar expense in her costuming. Designers are given carte blanche and shoot the works. Her conceits include an electrically lighted gown that lit up the town. She is the wife of a prominent lawyer and her son has figured in the Shanghai bombings as a photographer.

As one of the duennas in Cholly Knickerbocker's Cafe Society, she sets a swift pace in gadding. She never comes into a restaurant, she makes an entrance. Everything stops. Elsa Maxwell is another who dotes on rigging herself out in grotesque costumes, but she makes it pay.

There are stories that Mrs. Menken has appeared in outfits that cost as high as $5,000. And that her sartorial extravaganzas represent a financial outlay of $25,000 a year. Considering that each costume may be worn but once, it is a high in something or other.

Ida M. Tarbell, now in her 80's, is still quite active, both socially and in literary endeavors. While her writing no longer has the crusading flair for her Standard Oil exposes, her pen is trenchant. She looks upon the changing order with mixed emotions and has no panacea. Although she did confide to a friend recently: "I think it would be a good idea if everybody stopped talking for a year."

A favorite character of the artist, writing and music composing crowd was the father of the late George Gershwin, who passed away only a few years before his illustrious son. Pop Gershwin was a kind and humorous major domo with an amusing dialect. When the Gershwins moved to Riverside Drive after George got into the money, Pop was given charge of the furnace after being shown how to operate it. One fact was stressed, a certain lever should not be touched or the house would be set afire. A night or so later the family left Pop in charge and returning at midnight found the house ablaze. Pop with violent shrugs insisted he had not touched the furnace lever. George shrieked: "But you must have touched it. The house is on fire now. The department has arrived." After a few seconds, reflection, Pop said: "Well, then—maybe!"

Paddy's Market may be sacrificed to civic duding. Along that rabble-rousing stretch on Ninth avenue between 37th and 42nd streets once foraged the motion picture fellows, James Cagney and George Raft. For 48 years its curbs were lined with push carts representing fathers and sons of two generations. The proposed abolishment is to make way for the entrance to Lincoln Tunnel and is fought desperately and a bit pathetically by the push-cart men, who claim it will leave nothing for 200 of them, save to go on relief.

The chronic race track follower, as a type, has always perked my interest. I lived among them in a hotel out in Cincinnati. Their routine is thoroughly Neitzschian, "living hard and dangerously." At a hotel on upper Broadway I ran into a nest of them the other day—birds of a feather flocking together. Yet despite their come-easy, go-easy careers, they did not look much older than 20 years ago. Many are husbands and wives still making their seasonal pilgrimages of the circuit — Belmont, Haver de Grace, New Orleans, Latonia, etc. Save for the fever of gambling, which consumes them, they are extremely temperate. I never knew one who would not admit it was a sucker game and I never knew one, caught up in its excitements, to quit.

Having succumbed at one time or other to most of the minor vices, I often wonder why I never had a joust with gambling. Perhaps an ingrained Scot wariness. I played poker for awhile, but with no relish, and my total bets on the ponies wouldn't total $20. I have kibitzed the feverish intensity of those around tables at Bradley's in Palm Beach and at Monte Carlo without the slightest inclination to participate. Indeed, the only real amusement I ever wrangled from the sidelines was watching a Negro crap game under a railroad trestle. That's devastating fun!

Everyday Poems

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

"This Is My Mother."

"This is my Mother," proud her voice:
A woman, drab, afraid.
Bowed, as her lovely daughter spoke . . .
A contrast those two made.

The daughter, modern, groomed and fit,
The mother, peasant still
As when she crossed the seas to see
A husband's dream fulfilled.

Yet in the daughter's voice a pride
Illumining that scene,
"This is my mother." Love spoke there
And like a shining sheen,

Surrounded that small shrinking one,
Encircling her with light,
So that she, too, was beautiful,
So great is true love's might.

THE PIPER'S TUNE

By JOSEPH McCORD

CHAPTER XXX

"Oh, I'm not the least nervous. But, Terry, don't you think it was queer that anybody should attempt to hold Mr. Severance up on a public road like that? They certainly wouldn't expect him to be carrying valuables in his car, even if he is supposed to be rich. Would they?"

"Search me, Dad. It was only some bunch of hop-heads, I reckon. Looking for trouble and Severance called their bluff. Try to forget it."

Caradad promised, but wondered about it for a long time before she retired.

When she saw Terry at eleven the next morning, her intuition told her at once that something was amiss. Terry, in spite of his efforts to be entertaining and affable, was possessed of one of his old restless fits.

• • •

They had dinner at a roadhouse some little distance from the main highway, an old mansion done over to serve a more modern purpose and with a spreading lawn shaded by huge maple trees. After they had finished, Terry suggested a siesta in some of the comfortable chairs scattered here and there on the grass.

"Safety in numbers—here," he quoted with a slight smile.

"I believe you were scared more than I was," Caradad scoffed. "I haven't even thought of it today."

He found two chairs, then sat smoking in moody silence. Caradad watched him, half provoked and half amused. Perhaps it was because she had known him so long that his attitudes were so nearly transparent—in some ways he reminded her of a small boy.

"Aren't you going to put words on it?" she ventured, after twenty minutes of silence. "Something has you down today."

Instead of the expected evasion, Terry's grey eyes met hers in a level stare. He nodded agreement.

"Might as well admit it. Dad—this whole thing . . . well, it's no good."

When old John Vardell taught his girl the rudiments of poker, he had stressed the necessity of the "dead face." She looked at Terry now with eyes that did not waver although her heart was beating oddly.

"It isn't?" she questioned steadily.

"No. I should have known, too." Something in Caradad's brown eyes betrayed her. "Oh, Dad!" Terry explained remorsefully, "I didn't mean that—not the way it sounded. Please don't think I'm not eternally grateful for what you did. You saved my life. It's what I'm trying to do that's no good at all. I'm about at the end of my rope.'

"Suppose you tell me what you do mean."

"I'll try. It's entirely my fault, but I—well, it's as I told you once I can't put my heart into a piker's game. I just can't.'

"I see.'

"I doubt if you do, dear. You know, when you gave me that lift, I made up my mind I wouldn't let you down. If I do say so myself, I've been working hard and . . ."

"And succeeding," Caradad interrupted. "At least you've made me think so."

"Oh, yes. You'd call it that. But I haven't been doing the worthwhile jobs I used to. The prospects I go for won't hunt me up in a two-by-four office. You've got to find them, play around with them. As it is, I've just about been making ends meet, Dad. It's chicken feed. Why, at the rate I'm going, it will take me years to pay you back!"

"You don't have to worry over that."

"Just the same, I do. If I were able to handle my work the way it should be done, I could clean up. I know I could."

"And you want to—clean up?"

"Naturally. So much so, that I'm thinking of getting into something else. I've got to make my money in decent chunks, or not at all."

• • •

Caradad leaned back in her chair and gazed dreamily up into the leafy branches over her head. She said a surprising thing.

"I know how you feel, Terry. I've been thinking the same thing myself. In fact, I've about decided to do one of two things."

"What the devil do you mean?" Terry's face was frankly puzzled.

"I've seen what was happening," she told him quietly. "That party or Nick's gave me an idea. Tell me . . ." She leaned forward and rested her chin in her small palms. "If you had a place something like his where you could entertain the people you wanted to meet—that would be a help. You wouldn't always be indebted to me then."

"Wait. I've been thinking we could do something like that systematically—make a business of it together." She smiled. "I guess they'd call it a racket, here. But that's what I mean. You find a really nice apartment and fix it up. Entertain the people you want and let them be under some obligation to you. I'll take care of the investment—to start. I'd like that. Later, we split. Wouldn't it pay us?"

"You—you don't mean that, you—little chump!"

"But I do! Wouldn't it work?"

"You've no idea how well it would work, Dad. We could make a killing! You almost make me wish it weren't a pipe dream."

"But why is it?"

"Because it is. Because I like to kid myself into thinking I still have some shred of decency left. Listen my dear. In the eyes of the local world, you and I are engaged. You're scandalously rich and I've never been much better than a hanger-on. Suddenly I blossom out in a ritzy apartment and begin throwing parties. I've heard the talk that sort of thing starts. I reckon you haven't."

• • •

A dull flush mantled his cheeks, as he busied himself cleaning his pipe with a grass stem. He had purposely been blunt in bringing up his affairs. He had been chafing under his self-assumed business harness. It was too sudden a change. He missed his old associates and carefree hours in the open. When he did meet his former cronies he was forced to accept veiled jibes, if he were not accused frankly of being a fool—displaying all the zeal of some beginning young bond salesman, when he had plenty of money at his disposal. Or was supposed to have. Gerta Greenway, upon the few occasions they met, was frankly amused at his role. That nettled him more than the ridicule of others.

Terry cursed himself mentally that he couldn't be low enough to accept Dad's offer. The worst of it was, her plan was perfectly logical. He could clean up. Talk about a rotten break . . .

"Then that's quite final?" Caradad was asking. "Yes! You must see how it is . . ." Terry sighed gloomily. If only Dad would or could suggest some middle course. Something he could accept as a sop to his pride.

"Yes, I see." Caradad looked at him pensively, as she resumed, "I told you I had two ideas. That was one. I've decided now to carry out the other. You can have no objection to it, because it is my own affair entirely. I shan't ask to help you, but you can help me very greatly—if you will."

"What do you mean?" Terry asked it suspiciously. "What are you going to do?"

"Leave the Rushmore. I'm tired of it. I want to be where I'll have more room and can be perfectly independent. I've decided to take an apartment."

"Where? What kind of apartment?"

"Somewhere in the neighborhood of the Rushmore, I think, I like it. I would like to try housekeeping again—on a rather large scale. You know, have servants and all that. I can afford it and I don't see why I shouldn't."

"Of course not. But, Dad, if this is some sort of game . . ."

"It's my game, if it is. What good is my money going to do me if I go to the Pomphrettes' or settle down on a farm somewhere?"

"Go on."

"Well, I'd like to entertain a lot and give my friends a pleasant time . . . have a place where they will like to come, informally if they want to. Maybe I get that from Pop. He was always happiest when folks dropped in at home—the more there were, the better he liked it. Of course, I don't know so very many people here."

"Don't worry," Terry advised dryly. "You've no idea how many friends you'll have. Once you start open house with free lunch served."

"I'm glad you mentioned that," Caradad said seriously. "I know a hostess is supposed to keep a supply of drinks for her friends. That's where I'm going to have to depend on you heaps.

"Go on."

"Well, as I was saying, I don't know so many people yet. But all my friends are yours. Certainly they aren't going to be very much surprised to see you at my house—at parties, you know. And, if there are some you would like to entertain on your own account, why, we'll have them. It might be quite an advantage. . ."

"You're really going to do that, Dad?" Terry said.

"I really am. If you don't want to play—I hope you will, though. You've no idea how much you can help me."

"Well..." Terry shrugged resignedly. "If you feel like tossing away a bunch of money, I reckon nobody can stop you. And if you need any help that I can give you—about running your place, I mean. You know you have only to ask. But I still don't quite get it—I wonder if you realize what you're getting into."

"I think so. I'm growing tired of living in such an aimless way. If I don't like it, I can always do something else."

"May I ask how pretentious an establishment you expect to have? It's likely to prove an expensive hobby. People will take advantage of you."

"Crashers, you mean. That's a quaint custom, isn't it? Well, I don't know just how big a place I do want. It will depend on what I can find—might take a furnished place. But I've set my heart on having a butler—I've get to have a butler!" she smiled. "Maybe that will have something to do with the size of the apartment. I want a butler who's nice and insolent. And I'm going to have a personal maid. I want to have and do all the extravagant things I've read about ever since I was a little girl. It sounds foolish, I know."

"It certainly doesn't sound like you."

"Well," she mused, "I'm not so sure I am me any more. The ugly duckling's going in for swans-down. Are you thinking seriously of giving up your office, Terry?"

The unexpected question caught him off his guard.

"Well—I suppose I couldn't on a day's notice. But I had about made up my mind to do something. The thing's gotten on my nerves so. I'm ready to go back home and ride fence. Of course I can take time to go around and help you locate a place."

"No, indeed! I wouldn't think of letting you do that. But I hope business will pick up enough for you to stay on awhile. Of course I'll have to have a housewarming and I'll need your help to make it a success. So, don't run away too soon."

"Oh, I won't. And I'll be glad to help you in any way I can. But I hope you'll be — just a little careful."

"Careful? How?"

"I reckon I was thinking about yesterday—what happened on the way to Severance's farm, you know. You'll be doing a lot of running around in crowds... silly, of course, but it worries me to think of your going about alone."

"Of course it's silly." Caradad frowned slightly. "I never carry much money and you know I don't wear jewelry. I'm perfectly able to look after myself."

"Sure. I guess it's a hangover from the days when I thought I had to ride herd on you. And, you know, you have been advertised more or less." Terry brightened suddenly. "If youre going in for house furnishings and that sort of thing, why don't you hunt up Greta? I wouldn't wonder if she'd have some good ideas — rather artsitic, her women friends say."

• • •

Terry's suggestion that Mrs. Greenway might prove a valuable ally only strengthened Caradad's determination to carry out her plans unaided. She did not care to have her movements and decisions discussed by her friends, be they well-meaning or merely curious.

She had noticed the offices of a rental agency not far from the Rushmore, an impressive-looking place whose proprietors advertised the handling of a high-class properties. After several conferences and inspection tours, Caradad Vardell was the lessee of a thirteen-room furnished penthouse apartment facing the lake.

What Is Your News IQ?

(By Associated Press)

Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 60 is fair; 80 good. Answers on Page 16.

1. Who is this man? What government agency does he head?
2. What anniversary are Methodists observing this year?
3. Did Representative Sirovich suggest that the U. S. get rid of Japanese fishermen in Alaskan waters by (a) dropping warnings from a plane, (b) protesting to Tokoyo, or (c) bombing them?
4. What English invention is designed to enable a heavily loaded plane to fly without the usual take-off.
5. The London naval treaty of 1936 set no limit to the size of ships. True or false? Did Japan sign it?

A Message

Gratitude can be expressed in many ways. The people of Mansfield and its environs have indicated their friendliness, through the generous patronage, during the three short years, which has made it necessary for us to seek larger quarters.

Now it's our turn to show our appreciation, and we would like to demonstrate, in a practical way, that we appreciate your co-operation.

We are opening Mansfield's largest home-owned furniture store, and have increased our stock $75,000 to give you a wider selection of the things you seek. Behind this investment is our belief in the future of Mansfield. Yesterday is HISTORY . . . We are living TODAY . . . and looking ahead to the limitless tomorrows that are to be ours to enjoy.

We extend to you and you and you . .. the merchants of this city and your employes . . . and the people of Mansfield and vicinity . . . a cordial invitation to be our guests Wednesday evening at the Prevue Opening of our New Furniture Store. We don't want you to come with the idea that we will try to sell you anything. We just want you to visit our store and spend a pleasant evening with us.

Let me repeat my invitation to you . . . come in Wednesday Night as our guests. I am deeply appreciative of your past favors, and I want you and your friends to remain among our customers.

With sincere good wishes for your continued health and happiness, I remain

Yours sincerely,
WALTER B. BATSON.
